ACT TO STOP FARM RELIEF FILIBUSTER

CAL READY TO VETO HAUGEN RELIEF BILL

Will Write Detailed Objections of Administration to Farm Measure
TAKES LEAD IN FIGHT
Coolidge Feels Bill Would Injure Farmer—To Explain Stand to Midwest

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1927, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—President Coolidge will assume the leadership at once in the fight against the type of legislation represented by the McNary bill just passed by the senate. The president is preparing a veto message, for it is confidently expected that the bill will pass the house next week. The margin of eight votes in the senate, however, indicates that the measure cannot be passed and two-thirds vote for passage over a veto, so farm relief legislation of the McNary kind may be said to be dead so far as the present congress is concerned.

There is real gratification in administration quarters that the president will take the lead and write a message which will for the first time elicit the detailed objections of the administration to the McNary bill. Until now, not a word has come from the White House except by implication when the general subject of price fixing has been discussed. Cabinet officers have been unable in their speeches or statements to say a word in direct opposition to the McNary bill because the president himself had not spoken. Now the opportunity will be unrestricted to argue the case before the farmers of the country.

CLAIMS BILL IS HARMFUL
Mr. Coolidge feels that the McNary-Haugen bill will not benefit but actually injure the farmer. The middle west has heard only one side of the story in the opinion of administration officials and now when the other side

MORE TESTIMONY IN DAUGHERTY HEARING

License to Transfer Impounded Assets Revealed by Miller Employee

Federal Court New York.—(AP)—Testimony was offered in the Daugherty-Miller trial today to show that at the time $7,000,000 impounded assets of the American Metal Co. were transferred to one claimant, there was on file at Washington a license for others to negotiate with persons in Switzerland for their purchase.

The license was identified by Paul Smith, head of the corporation management division of the alien property custodian's office in 1921. It was issued to Julian Beatty and Henry Bruer, as representatives of the American Metal company.

Smith testified he was summoned to the office of Nicholas W. Miller, then alien property custodian, in April, 1922, on being instructed to get all the papers in the American Metal case, Smith said he sent instructions to filing clerks to bring the records and half an hour later had the license.

The government offered this as proof that the claims made by Richard Merton, as agent for the Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs De Metaux, were not properly investigated in the three days the government had them under consideration.

BURGULARS LOOT STORE AT MADISON OF $5,000

Madison.—(AP)—Blowing a large safe and opening another by knocking off the combination, robbers Sunday obtained between $3,000 and $10,000 from Hill's Department store. The robbers waited until after 7 o'clock, when the night watchman left, before entering the store. A score of women's coats, valued at $1,000 were used to deaden the sound of the explosive.

The robbery is the second here within a month, a clothing store being robbed in the same manner a few weeks ago. Similar robberies at Rockford, Ill., and Beloit, are believed to have been engineered by the same band.

SHARES LIQUOR WITH HIS PARTNER; DIES

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Harry Boll, 44, died Sunday after sharing the contents of a bottle of liquor with his business partner, Edwin Smith, 45. Smith was taken to the emergency hospital and given an emetic, but did not become ill. Authorities said a post-mortem examination of Boll's body would be held Monday to show the cause of death. A chemical analysis of the remainder of the liquor in the bottle will be made, they said.

GUTHRIE REVIVES RITUALISTIC DANCE IN NEW YORK CHURCH

New York.—(AP)—Ritualistic dancing has been revived by Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie at St. Marks-in-the-Bowery, after a suspension of two years. Dr. Guthrie explains he wants to "keep pushing religion ahead and not keep it back. If the high church can introduce Roman Catholic ritual," he declares, "we being a broad church, can introduce any other ritual we want."

Ritualistic dancing was suspended at St. Marks-in-the-Bowery after a controversy between Bishop William T. Manning and Dr. Guthrie over the feature.

Revival of the dances, Dr. Guthrie says, is not "defiance." "I merely call it skidding to my guns," he asserts. Suspension was necessary, he explains, "because the hue and cry raised in the newspapers had the church people confused."

Four girls and six boys, clad in flimsy mantles, appeared at the church Sunday in a colorful dramatic pageant with the spiritual urge of rhythmic and barefoot dancing as the theme.

OFFICIALS BELIEVE NEGRO CONVICT MAY BE TOLEDO SLUGGER

Indiana Prisoner Denies Knowledge of Women's Skulls Found in Trunk

Michigan City, Ind.—(AP)—Declaring that he would die with "lips sealed," James C. Coyner, giant Negro convict serving a prison term for grave robbery, refused Monday to disclose anything concerning the four human skulls found in Royal Oak, Mich., house where he formerly lived.

He previously had admitted that he had lived in the house and had left the skulls in his trunk there, but Monday adopted a defiant attitude when questioned by Clyde Underwood, prosecuting attorney for Oakland Co., Mich., and George W. Smith, chief of police of Ferndale, near Royal Oak.

TWO BOYS ARE DROWNED IN MILWAUKEE RIVER

Milwaukee.—(AP)—The bodies of two 12-year-old boys who were rescued through the ice of the upper Milwaukee river on Saturday were recovered early Sunday afternoon. The boys, Robert Neister and Glenn Johnson, while skating on the river went into the Blue Hole, a deep cave in the cliff. The ice in the cavern is not as thick as on the outer river and the boys broke through and were drowned.

Witnesses said the boys were rescued after the drowning aided in recovery of the bodies. The water in the Blue Hole is twenty to thirty feet deep and each year in summer or winter it has taken its toll of lives.

EIGHT ARE KILLED IN BRITISH TRAIN CRASH

London.—(AP)—At least eight passengers were killed and many injured when a train from Withersia struck an express train bound for Scarborough Monday morning. Six coaches of the Withersia train in which were a number of school children and business men, were telescoped.

BOLIVIA DISPLAYS U. S. FLAGS AS AIRMEN VISIT

LaPaz, Bolivia.—(AP)—American flags were displayed Monday in the Bolivian capital in honor of the aviators of the United States army "good will" expedition, who arrived here by train Sunday. The fliers, visiting Central and South American countries, left their planes at La Paz, and journeyed here especially to extend greetings to President Siles.

NEW SUIT FILED AGAINST SHEPHERD

CHINESE HISS AS BRITISH TROOPS LAND

Refugee Describes Threat of American Destroyer to Fire on Chinese

Shanghai.—(AP)—A regiment each of Durham and Gloucestershire troops landed here Monday and paraded through the principal streets. Chinese crowds lined the route of march. There was some hissing.

The steamer Suivo arrived Monday bringing 150 refugees, the majority of them American missionaries from Szechwan Province. Arrivals on the Suivo included Dr. Joseph Beech, president of the West China Union university at Chengtu, who described the recent incident at Ichang in which an American destroyer threatened to fire on Chinese troops who were attempting to commandeer a refugee ship.

Dr. Beech said the Chinese soldiers boarded the refugee ship and demanded that they be taken up the river. A detachment of American soldiers from the destroyer El Cano attempted to put them off, but failed.

The commander of the destroyer trained his guns on the refugee ships and declared he would open fire unless the Chinese left it, which they did.

THREE PERSONS ARE NAMED FOR NEENAH POSTMASTER'S JOB

Washington, D. C.—(Special)—Three persons were named eligible Monday by the Civil Service commission for the postmaster vacancy at Neenah, Wis. They are John B. Schneller, present postmaster; James C. Fritzen and Harry S. Zemlock. It was reported nine persons had made application for appointment. Mr. Schneller's term expired early in February.

DR. PERCY S. GRANT, LIBERAL MINISTER, DIES IN NEW YORK

Episcopal Pastor's Views Frequently Clashed With Those of Church Heads

Mount Kisco, N. Y.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. Percy S. Grant, liberal Protestant Episcopal minister whose views on the divinity of Christ, divorce and many other questions frequently caused controversies, died in a hospital Sunday.

He was 66 years old. Last Tuesday he was operated on for appendicitis. He rallied but was weakened by uremia poisoning. Ill health had brought about his retirement in June, 1924, as rector of the Church of the Ascension.

Dr. Grant was unmarried. His engagement to Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lydig, twice divorced, was announced in August, 1921, but was broken in May, 1924, when Bishop Manning of the New York diocese forbade any minister in his territory to marry.

Dr. Grant was a liberal in his religious views. He was a member of the Episcopalians who favored remarriage of divorced persons except in special cases.

Dr. Grant gained prominent notice by attacking these church laws in 1901. In 1915 he criticized Dr. Manning, then rector of Trinity church for favoring stricter regulation of remarriage of divorced persons.

In 1923, Dr. Grant clashed with Bishop Manning on the question of the divinity of Christ. Dr. Grant had said he did not believe Christ possessed equal powers with God. He also said he felt consecration of churches was a custom passed down from which, one day and that the clergy was "a suppressed, chained profession, whose members speak their minds outside the pulpit and not in it."

Dr. Grant, born in Boston and educated at Harvard, came to the Church of the Ascension from Fall River, Mass., 30 years ago.

MAY ISSUE PERMITS FOR MAKING LIQUOR

Bill Authorizes Secretary of Treasury to Allow Manufacture as Medicine

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—A bill to authorize the secretary of the treasury to issue permits to private companies for the manufacture of medicinal liquor was reported unanimously Monday by the ways and means committee.

Representative Hawley of Oregon, chairman of the sub-committee that drafted the measure, said that it was the plan to give permits to existing plants. One class of permits would provide for the manufacture of bourbon and the other rye. Permits may be good for 10 years, and would be renewable but could be revoked for violations of the law.

The treasury would prescribe the formulas to be used by the permittees who would be allowed a "reasonable profit."

The measure was approved as a substitute for the administration medicinal whiskey plan submitted by Assistant Secretary Andrews. Under the Hawley bill existing stocks of whiskey would be concentrated in not more than six warehouses. Importation of whiskey would be permitted if existing stocks should prove insufficient to meet the demand.

CALHOUN PLACES FIRST IN SKI JUMP TOURNEY

Red Wing, Minn.—(AP)—Anders Haugen of the Calhoun Beach club, Minneapolis, won first place here Sunday in Class A of the Interstate Ski tournament. Bert Wilchek, of Ironwood, Mich., won first honors in Class B. In Class D Theodore Rex of Minneapolis was second, followed by 12 and 11 white Rube Onsdorf, Westby, Wis., jumped 110 and 117 feet for second place.

Ask Lindsey Debate Be Cancelled--Beat Student

Denver.—(AP)—Ralph Batschelet, a leader in student affairs at Denver University and vice president of the Thinkers association, Monday was confined to Mercy hospital here, following a severe fogging Sunday night by five masked men.

Batschelet, also president of the sophomore class, said the men told him they beat him because the association had arranged a debate on marriage between Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver Juvenile court, and the Rev. Dr. Burris A. Jenkins, pastor of Lincoln Boulevard Christian church of Kansas City.

Police also were informed that two other members of the association had been threatened. Morris M. Grupp, attorney, president of the association, told authorities he received a telephone call shortly after Batschelet was flogged, threatening him with similar punishment unless the debate, scheduled for Feb. 22, was cancelled.

Miss Margaret Farlow, secretary of the association, said she also had received a telephone call warning her to expect a beating if the meeting would be held. Batschelet told officers he was seized when enroute to the home of his fiancée. He said the men, after warning him his punishment was only a sample of what would follow if the debate was permitted, beat him until he nearly lost consciousness.

As soon as he was able, Batschelet walked home and called a physician. The doctor said though severely bruised, the youth apparently was suffering mostly from the shock.

The Thinkers association was organized 10 days ago, when the Denver university student council voted to cancel an address by Judge Lindsey before the student body. Young business and professional men and women, as well as students, were invited to join. Encouragement of free discussion of ideas and theories was the announced purpose of the association.

BILL CHARGES HE POISONED YOUTH, MOTHER

Cousins of McClintock Allege Undue Influence on Wealthy Youth

Chicago.—(AP)—Eight Iowa cousins of the late William McClintock, the youth known as "the millionaire orphan," Monday in a suit filed in circuit court, charged that the will offered by William D. Shepherd, the youth's foster father, was not the will of the orphan, but was procured by undue influence on the part of Shepherd, whom they also charged with the deaths of "Billy" McClintock and his mother, Mrs. Emma McClintock.

The will contest long had been expected. It was first indicated when Shepherd was indicted, charged with the murder of his foster son by administering typhoid germs to the young man. Shepherd, who was acquitted subsequently, was named as chief beneficiary in the will.

The bill of complaint further charged that Shepherd prevented the marriage of McClintock and his fiancée, Miss Isabel Pope, McClintock on his death bed was said to have wanted to have a bedside marriage and Miss Pope procured a marriage license, but no ceremony was held, due, it has been charged to interference by Shepherd.

CHARGE STUDY OF GERMS
The bill charges that Shepherd had a study of bacteriology in 1924, conferring with various persons schooled in that science. He learned, it was alleged, how typhoid germs might be administered without detection. This study was made, it was charged, to procure the death of William Nelson McClintock.

"William D. Shepherd, thereafter caused to be given or administered to said William Nelson McClintock," the bill said, "typhoid germs for the purpose of procuring the death of said William Nelson McClintock; that as a result of the typhoid germs administered McClintock sickened and died."

Referring to the death of the boy's mother, the plaintiffs charge Shepherd with having made a special study in drugs and chemicals in 1908 and while Shepherd and Mrs. Emma Catherine McClintock were living in Bayview, Texas, Shepherd "fed or caused to be fed and administered to the said Emma Catherine McClintock, various compounds and drugs containing mercury."

As a result of this, the bill charged, Mrs. McClintock died later in Chicago.

INSULT AGAIN IS CALLED IN PROBE

Magnate and Three Others to Be Summoned in Senate Inquiry in Illinois Election

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Samuel Insull of Chicago, and three others who refused to answer certain questions before the senate campaign funds committee in the Illinois-Pennsylvania primaries last summer, will again be summoned to appear before that committee next Monday.

The same questions which the men declined to answer again will be propounded, and if they persist in refusing to answer they very probably will be cited to the senate for contempt.

Insull, Robert E. Crowe, state attorney of Cook Co., and Daniel J. Schuyler, counsel for Insull, declined to testify as to contributions to and expenditures by the Crowe-Barrett, or regular Republican organization of Cook Co., in the senatorial primary, at which Frank L. Smith defeated the late Senator William B. McKinley.

In a report to the senate last Saturday, the campaign funds committee said Smith probably could not have been intimidated without the support of the organization and that its expenditures therefore became a proper subject for senate inquiry.

Thomas W. Cunningham, clerk of the court of general sessions at Philadelphia, was the recalcitrant witness. He gave $500 to the primary campaign fund of William E. Varo, senator-elect from Pennsylvania, but declined its source and to answer any question concerning his personal financial affairs.

REPORT FAVORABLY ON PITTMAN RAIL BILL

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—A favorable report on the Pittman bill, exempting short line railroads from the present requirement that they pay to the government one-half of all net earnings in excess of 6 per cent was ordered Monday by the senate interstate commerce committee.

CASUALTIES REPORTED IN JUGO-SLAVIAN QUAKE

Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia.—(AP)—A strong earthquake shock has caused a number of casualties and great damage at Stolar, Herzegovina. The tremor was felt over a wide area including Belgrade.

Ford's Oat Meal Cookies May Oust Farm Animals

New York.—(AP)—Experiments by Henry Ford in production of oat meal cookies, in an effort to eliminate cows, pigs, chickens and their products from the farm, are described Monday in a copyrighted Detroit dispatch to the New York American.

"The whole conception of the farmer is wrong," says Ford. "He is out of date I believe that eventually the needs now supplied by the cow the chicken, the hog will be made from other substances. Dietetics are being studied by my scientists along this line."

"Here let me show you," Mr. Ford said to Horace V. Wilkins, who obtained the interview while Mr. Ford was speeding westward in his special car, the Fair Lane Mr. Ford pressed a button, and a colored chef appeared.

"John" said Mr. Ford, "get me some of these crackers we received from the laboratory this morning."

John returned bearing a silver platter on which were a dozen grayish-colored crackers about two inches across and two-thirds of an inch thick.

Mr. Ford took one and handed the correspondents one. The crackers were crisp and carried a taste of pecans and oatmeal. Mr. Ford then pulled a slip of paper from his pocket which named the ingredients of the cracker. It read:

"Pastry, flour, pecans, germ wheat, oatmeal, olive oil water and baking powder."

Ford views the McNary-Haugen farm subsidization bill passed by the senate as "the most asinine piece of legislation ever to be tried out on a nation." It is "senseless," he believes, and "will take away entirely what little initiative and ambition the farmer now exercises."

DEATH IS ADVENTURE TO DAVENPORT BOY, 14, HE COMMITS SUICIDE

Davenport, Ia.—(AP)—"To die will be a glorious adventure," thus wrote George W. Cannon, Jr., 14-year-old high school student, who was found dead in his gas-filled room Monday morning by his mother. He wrote a long letter before opening a gas jet. He said in part:

"It is my belief that my spirit will some day enter into the body of a playwright and will call forth a story of a boy who loved to dream, the story of a boy who was so disillusioned that he couldn't stand it any more. The play will make the man famous and yet it will be my story, so my ambition was not so unfulfilled. Remember what Mr. Grimm said, 'good night--not good bye.'"

Young Cannon was of literary turn of mind, his family said. He is the son of one of Davenport's leading families.

$315,000 OF FIRST HUNDRED MILLION FOR APPLETON P. O.

This City Among Nine in Wisconsin to Get Federal Appropriation

The United States government will spend $315,000 for acquiring more land and erecting the postoffice here, it was announced Saturday by a joint committee of the treasury and the postoffice department at Washington. Appleton received an allotment from the first $100,000,000 provided for public buildings.

Milwaukee, which is the largest profit in the present session, is the first appropriation and is dependent on a second one of an equal amount which already has passed the house and is pending in the senate. Two Rivers, however, was added to the list sharing in the first appropriation. Other Wisconsin cities which will receive help for federal buildings are Kenosha, $450,000; Beloit, $315,000; Wausau, $270,000; Oshkosh, $475,000; La Crosse, $70,000; Racine, $400,000; Marshfield, $100,000; Two Rivers, $100,000.

The announcement did not contain details of how the money is to be spent nor when the work is to be started. It is understood, however, that in Appleton the government will acquire additional land and will enlarge the present building to slightly more than twice its present size. It is said the government is considering buying either the Appleton theatre or Briggs hotel sites. Local postoffice officials have been asked to get prices on both properties.

JAPAN WOULD KEEP ITS PRESENT NAVAL POWER

Tokio.—(AP)—Premier Wakatsuki told the upper house of the diet Monday that Japan's "present military and naval forces are necessary to maintain and protect Japan's existing position and rights. Unless there is a marked change in Japan's international position in the world's general condition in the future, Japan must maintain her present strength on land and at sea."

Paris.—(AP)—France's reply to President Coolidge's naval armament memorandum will reject the proposed methods of procedure, it is said in the best informed circles. Foreign Minister Briand and his collaborators are working on the reply to have it ready for the cabinet meeting.

The reply will omit reference to the merits of the disarmament question, being limited to a discussion of the complications, which it is contended, would result from taking the matter out of the hands of the league of nations, and objections to separating naval disarmament from the general disarmament scheme.

TWO WOMEN FLEE HOME FOR FEEBLE-MINDED

Union Grove.—(AP)—During the height of the snow storm Sunday night, two women inmates of the Southern Wisconsin Home for Feeble-minded fled from the institution. They were Laura Fish, 24, Mauston, and Lena DeVall, 24, of Rock-Island. Superintendent L. F. Murphy said the two women were warmly clad and apparently walked out unnoticed.

HAUGEN WOULD OFFER SENATE BILL TO HOUSE

Step Will Make Conference Report to Senate Unnecessary, if Approved

EXPECT VOTE THIS WEEK
Supporters of Bill Press Toward Showdown to Rush Measure to Coolidge

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Substitution of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, as passed by the senate for its companion measure now before the house, was recommended Monday by the house rules committee.

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Friends of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill appeared Monday before the house rules committee to ask authority to substitute the bill as approved by the senate for the companion measure now under consideration by the house.

After hearing Chairman Haugen of the agricultural committee, the rules committee requested him to call a meeting of his committee and have it formally authorize a request that substitution be permitted. Substitution of the senate bill and its passage without amendment by the house would make unnecessary a conference report to the senate and the consequent danger of a standstill in the measure there; in the closing days of the session.

The McNary-Haugen bill, listed Monday for a fiery three hours debate in the house, probably faces the last week of its congressional life.

VOTE THIS WEEK
While final vote on the measure, which was passed last Friday by the senate, is not expected in the house before the end of the week its supporters, confident of its passage, are pressing towards this showdown so that the bill can be placed in the hands of President Coolidge by Saturday.

Its supporters, led by Chairman Haugen of the house agriculture committee, a co-author of the measure, however, are planning to bring it Tuesday to a test vote, as an index of its strength, on the parliamentary handling of the bill.

The measure faces another barrier, great before the present session ends. Representatives are planning to burden the measure with amendments so its return to the senate for conference will be necessitated. There its senate enemies hope to bury it so there will be no opportunity of a conference report before the present session ends.

Representative Haugen evidently anticipates such a move against his measure and Monday began his attempt to thwart it with a parliamentary maneuver.

Representative Berger, Socialist, Wisconsin, in a statement Monday announcing support for the McNary-Haugen measure, said that "American ruling class demands" that farmers provide food at prices no higher "than foreign manufacturers and foreign labor gets them in foreign countries."

"The Haugen bill may not be economically sound," he added, "and it may help only temporarily, but I am for it because it is a measure of charity and justice."

HEAVIEST SNOW STORM OF YEAR IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Milwaukee was buried Monday under 6.2 inches of snow, the heaviest fall of the winter. The snow fell Sunday afternoon and night, coming just as the ice and snow was shrinking from the streets.

Plenty of "Time" Lost These Days

We hear much of crime waves. And speaking of waves it's a curious thing that lost articles are subject to, what we may term "lost waves." During the past few days, the "Lost and Found" takers of the classified department of the Post-Crescent have had ample opportunity to observe this happening. Days pass with only the publication of a few ads of this nature, then suddenly one may have occasion to publish a dozen or more. The advertisements coming into our office so rapidly in a few hours as to bewilder the mind. But irrespective of the ups and downs of the losing business, Post-Crescent ads invariably return lost articles to their owner.

Recently the number of watches lost outnumbered all other articles reported missing. Mrs. H. A. Holtermann, 336 W. Commercial St., and Mrs. W. O. Nelson both lost a watch a few days ago—and had them returned thru using a "Lost" advertisement.

LAWRENTIAN EDITS SPECIAL COLLEGE AND CITY EDITION

Newspaper Relates Growth of City from Three Villages Around College

A special Appleton-Lawrence edition of the Lawrence Post-Crescent was published Friday as a recognition to the citizens by the college, the editor, Miss Violet Christensen of Oconto, announced. How the city grew up around the college from three small villages is told by the paper. Lawrence was located in Grand Chute which was separated from the village of Appleton by N. Division street. The present Union was situated Lawrenceburg, the third village from its neighbors.

Amos Lawrence, the founder of the college, induced the three villages to consolidate. "This was done and in 1859, when the first postoffice was established here it was named Appleton after Samuel Appleton, one of the chief benefactors of the little community and the father-in-law of Amos Lawrence," the paper told.

The settlement was incorporated as a city in 1857 when the population of the village was nearly 2,000. "Great hopes were held for this booming little western town. When the Rev. Edward Locke, first active president of Lawrence, arrived in the city he was very enthusiastic about the place, and wrote to his friends in the east that he found Appleton a beautiful little city of about 1,500 inhabitants."

"The first railroad reached Appleton in 1861 when the Northwestern line extended its tracks to the city."

"Appleton was the first city in the world where electric street cars were used, the paper stated, and also claims to be the first city to adopt electric lights."

An appreciation of the college by several local business men was contained in the Lawrencean. An appreciation of the college for the city of Appleton is shown in an editorial, which says in part: "This Appleton-Lawrence issue is an attempt to pay tribute to the city which is our home for four years."

"In most college towns there is an undercurrent of antagonism between the college and the town, but this condition does not exist between Lawrence and the city in which it is located. Instead there has been established a relationship so friendly that the college, though a separate community in many ways, feels that it is an integral part of Appleton."

Reasons for this feeling of cooperation cited were the great number of Lawrence alumni in Appleton, Lawrence Memorial chapel which was built largely through the efforts of Appleton citizens, and the growth of both institutions at the same time from their beginnings to influential forces in the state.

Lawrence spends $275,000 yearly in the city of Appleton, the paper says.

The intellectual aspect of a college usually overshadows its industrial importance in a city, it was said, but the latter is the case of the Appleton-Lawrence college last year about 75 percent of the amount was spent right in Appleton, among city industries and city firms. This sum is exclusive of the amounts spent annually by the students themselves.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION APPROVES BOND ISSUE

The $100,000 bond issue authorized last fall by the county board has been approved by the Wisconsin highway commission, and the papers turned over to the attorney general for his approval, according to word received Friday by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, from the highway commission. The issue is intended to cover the county's share of improvement work on highway 76 next summer.

NORTH AMERICAN CO. SERVES BIG AREA

Subsidiaries, Including Traction Co., Cover 6,160 Miles in Michigan, Wisconsin

An area of 6,160 square miles, with a population of more than 1,400,000, is served by subsidiaries of the North American Co., including the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co., in Wisconsin and Michigan, a bulletin recently published by the North American Co. indicates. Highly developed industrial districts in the eastern section of Wisconsin and upper peninsula of Michigan, including Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Waukegan, Watertown, Appleton, Neenah and Menasha, secure power from this organization.

Generating capacity now available amounts to 296,375 kilowatts, 31,545 kilowatts of which is hydro-electric.

The Lakeside steam generating plant located five miles south of Milwaukee on the shores of Lake Michigan is the main source of energy in this territory, the bulletin points out. Operations at the Lakeside plant began in December, 1920, and its capacity constantly increased until it is 160,000 kilowatts today. Its ultimate capacity is 230,000 kilowatts.

The Appleton plant is a combination steam and hydro-electric generating plant with a capacity of 23,750 kilowatts.

The first hydro-electric central station was located in this city. A picture of the plant, located along the Fox river, is contained in the bulletin.

This station began operations Sept. 30, 1922. Since then the site has been moved three times, its present location being the fourth. It was located on Vulcan street, and its capacity was 200 kilowatts.

Other subsidiaries besides the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. in Wisconsin and Michigan are The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co., Wisconsin Electric Co., Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co., Peninsula Power.

The North American Co. is capitalized as follows: Authorized shares of preferred stock, 6 per cent cumulative, $50 par value, 1,200,000; outstanding shares of preferred stock on June 30, 1926, 695,713; authorized shares common stock, $10 par value, 6,000,000; outstanding shares common stock on June 30, 1926, 2,882,225.

WILL DEMONSTRATE VOCAL MUSIC WORK DONE IN SCHOOLS

Grades Will Present Program at Lawrence Memorial Chapel March 9

A demonstration of vocal music work in Appleton public schools will start at 7:30 Wednesday evening, March 9, at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Dr. Earl L. Baker, supervisor of music, has announced. The kindergarten, first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades will give the first demonstration. There also will be an exhibition of how piano is taught in classes.

Two thousand children will demonstrate vocal and instrumental music for the annual music clinic week, March 9, 10 and 11.

The program will be given with a demonstration of how vocal music is taught in the kindergarten and will deal with such problems as how a musical vocabulary is developed; type of songs taught, seating of students; a cure of so-called conversational singers, or monotones; how rhythm is developed; how songs are taught, and a general discussion of the child voice at the age of four and five.

It is the plan of the supervisor to have the kindergarten teachers do most of the demonstrating in their classes in the first grade a group of children's songs will be sung by a large chorus. Such projects as the development of good tone production, individual singing preparation for note reading, appreciation of music will be thoroughly discussed.

In the second grade demonstration there will be an attempt to show the public how children are taught to read music. In the third and fourth grades the child voice will be developed and there will be a demonstration of the development of rhythm.

The climax of the program will be the giving of the cantata "The Childhood of Liawatha" by a chorus of 200 fifth and sixth grade children. This cantata is about 30 minutes in length and will be given in Indian costume with an Indian setting.

On Thursday night, March 10, the three junior high schools will give a demonstration of vocal music, and will compete for three silver cups.

ACCEPTS POSITION AS DEAN OF HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Grace Bennett, a sister of Mrs. Nellie Henbest, registrar at Lawrence conservatory of music, has accepted the position of dean of women at the Oak Park high school in Oak Park, Ill. Miss Bennett is well known in Appleton, as she has visited her sister here and is an alumna of Lawrence college.

FREE DENTAL WORK IS VALUED AT $549

124 Children Attending Appleton Schools Are Treated Since Nov. 15

Dental work valued at $549 has been done on Appleton school children at the free dental clinic sponsored by the Kiwanis club and the board of education at the Lincoln school building since Nov. 15 when the clinic was opened. Attention is given free of charge of pupils from parochial and public schools who cannot afford to pay for the work. Amounts ordinarily charged for the work are placed on the children's accounts so that the value of the work may be measured.

One hundred twenty-four children were treated during these months. The work included, fillings, cleaning and extractions. The treatment given is the same as that in a dentist's office.

One is offered for the best girls' glee club, one for the best boys' glee club and one for the best mixed voice glee club. Every angle of the junior high school vocal problem will be discussed in this meeting. The climax of this program will be the singing of a boy chorus of 500 which will take in every boy in the Appleton junior high schools, for it has been demonstrated that every boy can sing, Dr. Baker said.

Friday night, March 11, senior high school music will be demonstrated. Band and orchestra, together with teaching of instruments in classes will be projected. The climax of this program will be the singing of the cantata "The Rose Maiden" by a mixed chorus of senior high school students.

When extractions are made either a local or general anesthetic is given. Five dentists have worked at the clinic this year. They are employed by the Kiwanis club.

One child had work valued at $24 done on his teeth, another had $23 worth of work. Fourteen received attention valued at $10 or more, and 29 between $2 and $10. Others were from $1 to $5.

The clinic was started last year. Examinations are made of every pupil in the city in the fall, and reports of defects sent to parents. If they cannot afford to pay for the necessary work, they were asked to return the slips and treatment would be given at the clinic. "An effort was made to have those children treated first who had the most serious dental defects."

Only five men have ever held the rank of general in the American army — Washington, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and Pershing.

DIPHTHERIA AND OTHER PLAGUES IN STATE THROTTLED

Health Board Reports a Few More Deaths but Contagion Causes Smaller Loss

Madison—(P)—An increase in the total number of deaths for the year, but a marked decline in scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever and small pox mortality was reported by the state board of health.

In comparison with the preceding year, the total number of deaths from all causes was slightly higher a report from the board said, with 29,524 deaths certificates already received. Approximately 200 certificates have not yet been included in the total, it was said.

Tuberculosis will undoubtedly show an increased toll when all reports are compiled, the report stated. The year's death rate was 10.6.

"In typhoid fever," the report said, "the year 1926 presented a record of fewer deaths than in any year except 1924. The year's total was 42. In 1910, by comparison, the typhoid mortality was 553. The change is attributed to intensive education and investigation applied to the control of this disease."

ONE SMALLPOX DEATH
"Smallpox fatality also was negligible with only 350 cases and one death reported last year. This is credited to the general vaccination of the year before, when malignant smallpox was rife in many sections and vaccination became a routine procedure in most communities."

"It is unfortunate," said the report, "that we must have a malignant type of smallpox with a considerable loss of life before vaccination is made a uniform practice."

The state reported 5,781 cases of scarlet fever, mostly of the mild type, and 77 deaths from the disease last year. This was the smallest number of such deaths in the history of the state. As a factor in this decline the report cited the use of the therapeutic dose of scarlet fever antitoxin, which was frequently effective in clearing up cases without the usual complications.

A new low level of diphtheria deaths also was reached with 154 deaths. In reaching this result the use of toxin-antitoxin in immunizing children, especially in the school population, is regarded as an important factor.

CANCER LEADS
Principal causes of death and their number in 1926 were: Cancer, 2,973; pneumonia, 2,357; violence, 2,053; tuberculosis, 1,829; influenza, 987; enteritis under 2 years, 424; whooping cough, 158; diphtheria, 154; measles, 142; scarlet fever, 77; puerperal septicemia, 55; typhoid fever, 42.

A study of the certificates shows 53 deaths due to lethargic encephalitis, or sleepy sickness; 52 resulted from syphilis, 17 from tetanus, 15 from infantile paralysis, 7 from moonshine poisoning, 6 from chickenpox, 3 from lead poisoning, and one each from smallpox and rabies.

Deaths from violence in 1926 were classified as follows. Automobiles,

Long Distance? Give Me King George In London!

Trans-Atlantic telephone service between Wisconsin cities and England, Scotland and Wales was inaugurated Saturday morning, when W. R. Govern, president of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. talked from Milwaukee to Col. H. E. Shreeve in London. The service between Detroit, Mich., and London was formally opened when Burch Foraker, president of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. conversed with H. E. Shreeve. Reception and transmission were perfect in both cases. It was reported, immediately after the formal opening ceremonies the service was thrown open to commercial use.

The rates fixed for connections between Wisconsin and Great Britain are $75 for the first three minutes and $25 for each additional minute. The 10 minute conversation of Mr. Mc Govern would cost the ordinary subscriber $250. Col. Shreeve is the London representative of the Bell Telephone Co.

"Regular commercial telephone service between New York and London was started on Jan. 7 and it has been rapidly extended in both countries Mr. McGovern announced.

hours corresponding to 1:30 in the afternoon to 6:30 in the evening London time.

"Telephone subscribers" Mr. McGovern said, "desiring to use the Trans-Atlantic service should call 'Long Distance' in the usual way. Because of the short time available each day when service can be given, it is desirable that when practicable calls be filed somewhat in advance of the desired time of completion. It is not many years since the first voice was carried from one city to another a few miles apart, the official said. In 1915, telephone lines spanning the continent were installed. Calls from points in Wisconsin to England, Scotland or Wales will travel over approximately 1800 miles of wire and 6300 miles of ether path.

HAREFOOT BOYS TRY OUT FOR GIRLS PARTS

Madison — (P) — Tryouts for "Meet The Prince" 25th annual Haresfoot production, called forth over 300 male students of the University of Wisconsin who were ambitious to take the part of lonesome 'girls' in the musical comedy.

Haresfoot is nationally known for the annual shows produced in which choruses, cast, and specialty numbers are handled exclusively by male students, who 'make-up' as pretty and flirtatious girls as necessity demands. The motto of the organization is "All our girls are men, yet everyone's a lady."

Extremely attractive and distinctive 'girls' combine to produce a hilarious plot of complications, which, in winding up in the inn-yard of a Heidelberg tavern, resembles a parody on "The Student Prince."

Taking the show to thirteen middle western cities, and presenting 25 performances, Haresfoot club sets a record this year surpassing that of "Mary Ann" last year's show.

The itinerary includes Rockford, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Peoria, Kenosha, Racine, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Appleton, Madison, and Janesville.

The show will go on the road April 1.

50 HEAR NOTED PREACHER GIVE TALK ON LINCOLN

The formation of Abraham Lincoln's character during his early years, his education and growth were described in a talk on the famous statesman by Dr. Carl Patton of the Chicago Theological seminary, at the banquet of Men's Sunday Morning club of the First Congregational church Saturday evening at the church.

Dr. Patton formerly was pastor of the First Congregational church in Los Angeles, Calif., and was the successor in Columbus, O., of the noted Washington Gladden. For the past year Dr. Patton has been professor of preaching at the Chicago seminary. Dr. E. Orblison, president of the club, presided at the banquet, and P. J. Harwood introduced the speaker. About 50 members were present.

Ceremonies to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Fond du Lac's most distinguished citizen, the late Gen. Edward S. Bragg, commander of the Iron brigade of Civil war fame, will be held by the Fond

All Around Wisconsin

Dr. C. Hornung, Oneida-co humane officer, is organizing a posse to round up a herd of wild Indian ponies which are roaming the Oneida-co Willow river bottoms. The horses are suffering from exposure and lack of food. Dr. Hornung recently traveled eight miles on snowshoes to kill two of the animals which had been attacked by wolves.

While fishing through the ice on a lake near Rhinelander, George Carden, a 15 year old Indian lad captured a gigantic walleyed pike. The fish weighed over fourteen pounds.

The discovery that the man whose body was found frozen in the ice under a culvert under the Northwestern trucks west of Kenosha, Saturday night, had been struck in the heart five times and stuck twice in the face with a pickax or similar object, was announced Monday by Coroner Joseph Friend of Kenosha.

What had appeared at first as bullet wounds were found to be knife wounds. Efforts to identify the man thus far have failed. Inquiry at Bain station, a railroad camp where about seventy-five Mexican laborers live, revealed information that one of the laborers had been missing a week.

To foreman was taken to Kenosha, but he failed to identify the dead man as the missing man. Coroner Friend announced he would impanel a jury to view the body, but an inquest would be indefinitely postponed until further investigation.

Many Vilas-co farmers find trapping of predatory animals a profitable side line. A report of the Wisconsin conservation commission just issued shows that during the fiscal year from July 1, 1925, to July 1, 1926, there were 78 wolves killed in the county on which bounties amounting to $2,340 were paid. Wolves are responsible for destruction of a large amount of wild game. Only by placing a bounty on them is their number kept down.

Interest in Fond du Lac's primary election campaign which is already being waged with four candidates in the field for the office of mayor, took a sudden turn Saturday when it was learned that petitions for the recall of the entire commission are being circulated.

In addition to the four candidates

IMPERIALISTIC POLICIES PREVOCATIVE OF WAR

Seeds of Peace and War was the subject of the sermon by Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of First Congregational church, at the Sunday morning services at the church. He spoke of the 'interests of peace and described those things which provoke war and those which make for peace.

Seeds of war, the pastor believed, are the habit of common speech by the press and individuals inciting hostile feelings toward our neighboring nations, and the policies of western nations which are provocative of war. For the last he gave the example of China. Western nations, particularly European peoples, are pushing their imperialistic commerce and backing it up with gunboats, Dr. Peabody stated. The policy of the American government toward China is better, he said, as it is not imperialistic.

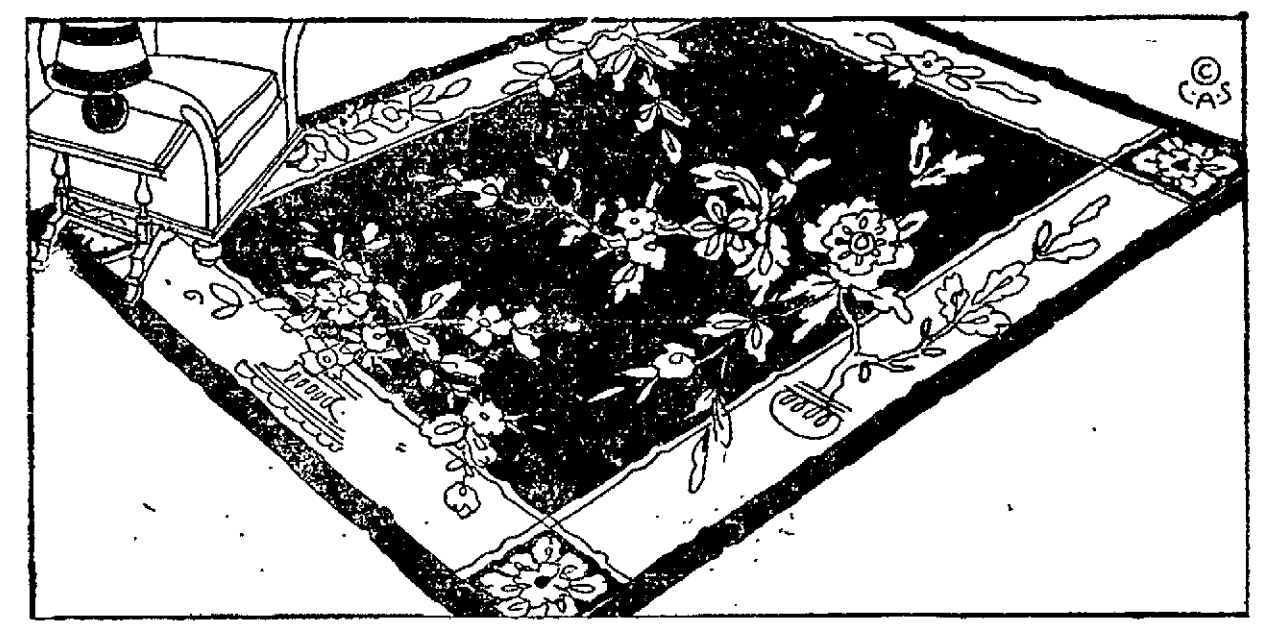

Two factors toward the promotion of peace cited by the speaker were the Dorah resolution now before the senate which is in favor of outlawing war and the League of Nations.

ALL OF CHINA IS REPRESENTED HERE BY DR. ALFRED SZE

Chinese Minister Represents More People Than Any Other Diplomat

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Dr. Sze-Ko Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to the United States, represents more people than any other diplomat in the world.

If he were just an ordinary diplomat, he might take sides with the Peking government, which pays his salary and the legation rent, or with the Cantonese, who at this moment look like a very good bet.

If the Nicaraguan or Mexican government were forced out by revolution, for instance, the new president would soon appoint a new minister or ambassador to Washington.

But if the Cantonese take over the Peking government, it's virtually certain that Sze will either hold his job or be taken back home and given a better one.

Officially Sze now represents the Peking government. Unofficially, he also represents the southern government at Canton. It is very likely that he takes orders from the Kuomintang. At any rate it is certain that he is in communication with the Cantonese and exchanging views and news with them.

This writer has been told that Chinese diplomats in other capitals of the world are also taking orders from the Cantonese.

The fact that this may be true and the fact that none of them are carrying on any anti-Cantonese propaganda demonstrates the unanimity of the Chinese people — and even the two principal governments of China — when it comes to the Chinese desire to put their country on an equal basis of sovereignty with the other nations of the world.

The frantic howls of President Adolfo Diaz in Nicaragua for active American intervention to save his skin is nowhere duplicated in China.

In fact, even Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian war lord who controls Peking, has made public squawk against the sending of more foreign troops and warships to the Shanghai area, although this might seem to aid his ally, Sun Chuan-fang, in the latter's defense of Shanghai.

The Chinese situation cannot be explained in terms of military zones, for the nationalist spirit seems to have affected the Chinese all over China, as evidenced by widespread membership in the Kuomintang. This nationalist party, incidentally, is very strong among all Chinese outside of China. The manager of your favorite chop suey restaurant or laundry probably belongs to it.

Every Chinese agrees that China needs a strong, stabilized central government and most of them agree that the Kuomintang offers the only existing hope of such an achievement.

This, then, is the position of Dr. Sze, who insists on representing China as a whole on the theory that all Chinamen look alike in matters such as extraterritoriality and tariff autonomy. The Peking government has been so chaotic, incidentally, that Sze, has

STOCK OF MOLOCH CO. DIMINISHED

Amendments to Articles of Organization to Kaukauna Industry Are Filed

Amendments to the articles of organization of the Moloch Co., Kaukauna, changing the name of the firm decreasing the capital stock, and increasing the number of directors, has been filed in the office of A. G. Koch, register of deeds.

The organization heretofore will be known as the Moloch Foundry and Machine Co. The capital stock has been diminished from $750,000 to $200,000 common stock of 2,000 shares of par value $100 each, and provision has been made for issuance of 175,000 shares of preferred stock, consisting of 1,750 shares of $100 each.

The preferred stock will be preferred over the common stock to the extent of 7 per cent per annum, semi-annually, and the dividends shall be cumulative and paid before dividends are paid on common stock, according to the amendments. The preferred stock shall have the same voting power as the common stock, and if no dividends are paid in five successive years, the voting power of the common stock will be suspended until payment of dividends is resumed. In case of liquidation, the preferred stock will receive 7 per cent of the dividends the next 7 per cent will be paid to the common stock, and the remaining profits will be equally divided.

The board of directors has been increased from nine to thirteen. The amendments were signed by R. M. Kanik, president, and H. Weitenbach, secretary.

more than once told Secretary of State Kellogg that he would leave whenever Kellogg felt he was no longer useful. But Kellogg has told him to remain.

Sze is about as remarkable a Chinaman as you'll meet. He is 50 years old and would pass for 30 or less. He was educated in a high school here, at Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Toronto and St. John's (Shanghai) universities. He was a brilliant student and now wears a Phi Delta Kappa charm.

For several years he was a provincial official in Hupoh and in 1907 he was made managing director of the Peking-Hankow railroad. He was promoted so rapidly to bigger railroad, financial and diplomatic jobs that it is impossible to enumerate them. He was a member of the first cabinet of the Chinese Republic, was appointed minister to Great Britain in 1911 and in the next seven years was a delegate to the Versailles peace conference and chief delegate to the Washington Arms conference and the Geneva Opium conference.

He has been the Chinese minister to Washington since March, 1921.

ROHAN REELECTED HEAD OF SCHOOLS FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Superintendent's Salary Is Boosted $300 to $4,800 Annually

Ben J. Rohan was reelected superintendent of schools for the coming year at the monthly meeting of the board of education Friday evening. An increase in salary of $300 was voted to the superintendent, making a total stipend of $4,800. This will be Mr. Rohan's third term as superintendent.

A practice athletic field for senior high school boys will be built on school property at the intersection of W. Spencer, S. Outagamie and W. Douglas-sts. It was decided on the recommendation of the maintenance committee. The committee was not in favor of the purchase of the old Lawrence college athletic field on E. Winnebago-st because of the expense. The property to be used will be put in condition this summer under the direction of the maintenance committee. It was bought by the old third district school board several years ago as a site for another school building if one is needed.

The committee also reported that the high school gymnasium was too small for basketball games and therefore recommended the removal of the absolute running track, to provide greater depth to the hall for basketball practice. The committee was empowered to have it removed.

Plans are under way for remodeling Washington school building to provide two extra classrooms and enlarge and improve the two temporary rooms now in use. This will relieve congestion and allow the sixth grade now housed in the Wilson junior high school to go back to the Washington school.

"Iron Firemen" will be installed in one of the school buildings, probably Roosevelt school, provided a satisfactory contract can be arranged with the company, the board decided. The device will be installed as a trial measure to see if it gives adequate service. The company installs the firemen for a trial period of one month and if they are not satisfactory they are removed at the expense of the company. The cost at the Roosevelt school would be approximately $1,800.

The firemen were investigated by the maintenance committee in school systems where they have been installed. It is claimed they will save on fuel and that screenings can be used instead of more expensive coal. They also may be used with only one boiler and are said to give more efficient service than the old firing methods. An automatic control system regulates the air pressure and heat.

Names of the delinquent owners will be secured next week when police start collecting delinquent personal property and income taxes. Every home in the city will be visited to determine whether there is a dog there, and the names of all dog owners will be turned over to the city treasurer.

Suit to collect the tax will be instituted by the district attorney against those who fail to pay, according to Mr. Bachman. The tax is $1 on a male dog and $2 on a female. Dogs six months or more of age are taxable.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CITIZENS WILL DECIDE ON NEW SHOE INDUSTRY

Proposition of M. T. Shaw Co., Inc., Racine, Will Be Laid Before People

Whether the M. T. Shaw Co., Inc., Racine shoe manufacturers, will locate in Appleton will depend entirely upon citizens of this city. Mayor Albert C. Kule announced Saturday morning following a conference all day Friday between the industrial committee of the common council and

M. T. Shaw, president of the Racine organization.

The decision probably will be made Tuesday evening, Feb. 15, at a mass meeting at the city hall. The shoe company's proposition will be laid before the people at that time, and if general sentiment favors bringing the industry here, the council will attempt to carry out such wishes, according to Mayor Kule.

Location of the factory in Appleton will cost the city approximately $75,000, the mayor indicated. The shoe company would not consider coming here for any smaller sum. This much was indicated to the industrial committee by Mr. Shaw.

It will cost the shoe company approximately $25,000 to move here, Mr. Shaw estimated. This money the city would be expected to furnish the company outright. The remaining $50,000

Although Mr. Shaw estimated that the removal to this city would cost at least $25,000 more, he believes that his firm would realize this lost in savings from fewer labor turn-overs in seven or eight years.

The shoe company favors Appleton for its new location, but if the city cannot meet its demands, Appleton will lose the industry. Mr. Shaw told the industrial committee. Cities in Michigan, Texas and Iowa are angling for it, and Ripon, Wis., also is in the field.

THE FARM RELIEF BILL

The senate by a vote of 47 to 39 has passed the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill. It now goes to the house, which is debating an identical measure. It was known before the vote came that the senate would approve the measure, and it is generally expected in Washington that the house will do the same. The bill is essentially the same as that which was before congress at the last session. It declares that wheat, corn, cotton, rice, swine and tobacco are the basic farm products of the country and authorizes the appropriation of $250,000,000 as a federal revolving fund to finance the farmers in exporting or holding crops until they can obtain a "fair price." It provides for four percent loans to stabilize other agricultural products not listed as basic, and for the levying of an equalization fee on farmers to meet the cost of operating their cooperative organizations. The theory of the bill is that by making it possible for the grower to withhold from the market surplus products, the domestic price will automatically rise to the world price plus tariff. The surplus is either to be marketed when the supply falls below the domestic demand, or exported at the world price, losses to be apportioned among the producers.

It is believed at Washington that if the house passes the bill, President Coolidge will veto it. The president has not announced what he will do, but his uncompromising opposition to what he regards as a "price fixing" feature of the legislation is taken to indicate that his views have not changed and that a veto is probable. The vote in the senate shows that the measure cannot be passed over a veto so that, notwithstanding both houses are likely to pass it, the prospect of its becoming a law is not promising.

There can be no doubt that the disposition of the McNary-Haugen scheme for farm relief is to have an important effect upon the presidential campaign next year, and particularly upon the nomination of a candidate by the Republican party. Failure of the legislation will be an acute disappointment to the midwest. At this time it seems certain it will result in a widespread farm movement to run former Governor Lowden of Illinois. Under such circumstances, Mr. Lowden undoubtedly would be a formidable opponent to Mr. Coolidge, should he aspire to another term.

The McNary-Haugen bill may be, as is asserted by its opponents, economically unsound. It is frankly an experiment, but it has been brought forward at a time when the agricultural interests of the country are suffering and are in need of relief, and when no other method is proposed that has the confidence of the farmers or that can enlist general congressional support. We think the agricultural problem is serious and that something should be done toward its solution. The country cannot remain permanently prosperous with an unbalanced relation of farm profits to those of industry and labor. Indeed, much of agriculture has been and continues to be conducted without profit. In the absence of something better, the McNary-Haugen plan would seem to be worth trying out. If it is wrong and unsound it might be worth the cost of the venture to find that out, and no great harm can come from testing out the proposal even if it doesn't work. Should it prove to be effective, it would be of incalculable value to farmers and the country at large.

WHEN YOUTH GROWS OLD

We are apprised of the observation of Thomas Edison that youth is not going to the dogs, after all. In an interview, the other day, the famous inventor and scientist expressed great hope in the young generation in America. The youth of today has better morals than father or grandfather had, and a great deal better than the ancestors farther back than that, he says.

It is an old subject, all this talk of youth's decadence. What most interests us in Mr. Edison's remarks is that he says, if he had it all to do over again, he would choose the same career he took up when he was young.

"I would do exactly as I did originally," he said.

That is the thing for youth to look forward to in its march along life's path. If only, when age comes, the youth who is 20 today will not have to look back and say, "If I only could do it over again!" all is well.

Youth should travel ahead with a purpose in mind never to do the things that age would look back upon in shame. That covers the field of advice.

DISARMING THE WORLD

President Coolidge's memorandum proposing further naval disarmament has been received with mixed emotions in Europe. The British government promptly expressed its approval. Japan has given a cautious affirmative, while Italy is discreetly considering the suggestion, although reported to be favorable. In France the press generally is hostile or caustic. The government it is understood will accept the proposal in principle, but is likely to attach reservations. French feeling against the United States over debt settlement has not abated. Their politicians object to the United States acting, as they express it, in the role of disarmament dictator. They profess to believe that the League of Nations should decide this question without the leadership or under the pressure of this country. France's real purpose is to be accorded a higher naval ratio than Italy, and to escape restriction of her submarine expansion program.

Each of the European powers has special pleas to argue. France's position as we have outlined, Italy wants to be kept at naval equality with France, and England would like authority for larger cruiser squadrons, because of her far-flung empire. Each hopes in a sense to have its special needs recognized, and if possible to gain something at the expense of the other. Because of the opportunities for "trading," France and Italy may feel they stand to gain more in a purely League of Nations conference than in a conference called and dominated by the United States.

President Coolidge's proposal cannot, of course, be separated from the League of Nations movement for a general disarmament conference, which is under way and has the support of the government at Washington. Indeed, a senate committee has just approved an appropriation of $75,000 to cover expenses of an American representative at the League meeting. Undoubtedly, Europe would be better satisfied if the two proposals could be united, or merged into a League undertaking with participation by the United States. On the other hand, a second naval disarmament conference initiated by the United States would be more or less under American influence and would be held to lines of principle rather than expediency. England, Japan and the United States, with the most at stake, will be the first to agree to any procedure. France and Italy are the uncertain factors.

The president has forced the issue of further naval disarmament sooner than Europe and Japan would have preferred, but it may as well be met now as any time. Logically it should be combined with general disarmament, and considered under League direction. With the United States as a member of the League the whole matter would be simplified and its prestige would undoubtedly be quite as powerful as in a separate gathering. However it is brought about, both land and naval disarmament must progress. It is indispensable to the economic relief of the world and as a foundation on which to lay a stable peace structure.

OLD MASTERS

Helen, thy beauty is to me
Like those Nican hark of yore,
That gently, o'er a perfume'd sea,
Sighs, way-worn wanderer bore
To his own native shore.

On desperate seas long wont to roam,
Thy bosom has, thy classic form,
Thy Naiad airs, have brought me home
To the glory that was Greece
And the grandeur that was Rome.

Lo! in yon brilliant window niche
How statue-like I see thee stand,
The agate lamp within thy hand,
Ah, Psyche, from the regions whence
Ah, Holy Land!

When olden music faintly o'er the land
And the olden music faintly o'er the land
And the olden music faintly o'er the land
And the olden music faintly o'er the land

THE HEART TROUBLE OF YOUNG PEOPLE

Whatever St. Valentine may think about it, Dr. L. P. Barker estimates in his excellent little book on "Rheumatism" (Appletons) that "from 50 per cent to 75 per cent of heart trouble in young people is due to rheumatic fever."

I have no anxiety about the young people, but I do hope that no old fogey will run away with the notion that all this heart trouble of young people is the penalty they have to pay eventually if not now for their recklessness about exposure. "That acute rheumatic fever is an infectious disease, just as truly as are measles and mumps, can no longer be doubted," Dr. Barker says in this same chapter. But Dr. Barker doesn't know the old timers—they still doubt the infectious character of the disease about as much as our benighted grandfathers did.

Drs. Abram J. Abelson and Lewis P. Sobel presented in the "Archives of Pediatrics" last September many instances in which two or more cases of rheumatic fever have occurred in the same house. Dr. St. Lawrence, quoted in Barker's book, says, "In families having one member the subject of the disease, rheumatic infection exceeds tuberculosis in family incidence and in frequency among exposed persons." There is, in short, a great deal of evidence that rheumatic fever is caused by a specific germ of virus, and is communicable in the same manner as scarlet fever, diphtheria, sore throat or other forms of virus.

As the specific germ of this severe, painful, but never fatal and never permanently disabling disease (except the two cases out of each hundred in which fatal heart complications occur), is not as yet isolated it is impossible to identify the illness more positively. In practice the physician must make as sure as he can that he is dealing with rheumatic fever by diagnostic exclusion—he must make sure the illness is not septic arthritis, gonorrheal arthritis, acute osteomyelitis or bone necrosis, or the beginning of arthritis deformans, or still a disease (chronic atrophic arthritis), any of which may resemble rheumatic fever. One important reason why the physician must make sure of his diagnosis is that rheumatic fever is practically the only one of these diseases in which serious heart damage is likely to occur.

As already implied, the heart is involved fatally in about 2 per cent of all cases of rheumatic fever, but some organic impairment or valvular injury does occur in fully half of all cases of acute multiple arthritis. This is a painless feature of the illness, and a complication which may not be noticed at all at the time, owing to the other sufferings of the patient and the failure of the physician to keep the involvement of the heart in the course of what may be a very mild or even an unrecognized rheumatic fever in childhood, accounts for many cases of inoperable valvular deficiency or "leakage of the heart" which becomes manifest in after years.

Numerous salicylates or derivatives of salicylic acid are justly famed for the relief and comfort they give the patient suffering with this painful illness. But I shall explain in another scarce how this very comfort too often spells danger for the patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Patience Are No Virtue Here

Kindly have patience and I will tell you about my trouble as briefly as I can, writes a lady—of course she is by way of introduction to five very long pages of history and symptoms.

Answer: But I have no patience. You should submit your history and symptoms to the consideration of a physician. Even if I were a very good doctor indeed (and we need not argue about this now) I could scarcely surmise what your trouble may be or know what ought to be done about it, unless I had personally examined you. So I have no patience with recitals of medical history, symptomatology, what the neighbors say or what you think it is.

THE RELIEF PITCHER

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

INDIRECT SATIRE IN "MAX HAVELAAR"

Recently I spoke in this series of "Max Havelaar" as the great Dutch satire of the 19th century. It is perhaps worth while to notice how the satire of this book is achieved, because the method is different from that employed by any other satirist I am acquainted with.

Most satirists go at the objects of their hatred directly, like a general who makes a frontal attack. Perhaps, like Sinclair Lewis, they don't like the "village virus" and so they hold up the village population to scorn. Or, like Jonathan Swift, they hate the whole human race and so they compare the human species with the race of hares. The disadvantage of the former is that the satire is a direct attack.

Edward Douwes Dekker, the author of "Max Havelaar," was of that much smaller company of satirists whose attack was indirect. Samuel Butler was another one of that select company. In "Erewhon" and in "Erewhon Revisited" he almost invariably seems to be praising the thing that he is attacking. To do that kind of thing well is tremendously difficult, but when it is done well it is twice as effective as direct satire.

To achieve indirect satire in "Max Havelaar" Dekker a special kind of machinery for his story that is rather artificial on the face of it but somehow it seems to justify itself. He set out to hold up to scorn the materialist business class so he invented a character who combined in his person all the most hateful characteristics of that class, a Dutch merchant coffee broker named Batavus Drydstubbe. The name itself is very obviously satirical.

But he does not describe Drydstubbe and then say to his reader, "See what a hateful person he is and all others like him are." He makes Drydstubbe tell the story and Drydstubbe is very greatly impressed with his own superiority and the superiority of all persons like himself. Every word he writes is in praise of the people his author wishes to hold up to scorn. He employs a young German to write a book for him, promising not to change a word, and that book, the story of the oppression of the natives of Java, where the coffee comes from, by the Dutch overlords, saves him from the king of coffee brokers and all other materialists of that type represented by Drydstubbe.

From time to time Drydstubbe, regretting that he has signed a contract not to change a word of the book, inserts a chapter of his own, to take away the effect of the story and to assure his readers that the whole thing is a pack of lies, that he himself and people like him are the salt of the earth and that the discontented people, like Max Havelaar of the story, are only trouble makers who interfere with the dividends of substantial business people.

You can see that the plan of the book is highly artificial and one that is full of pitfalls. And it must be admitted that what the author intends to do does not always come off. The effect of it is that of a chaotic mass of material that is not skillfully blended, lacking the unity that we expect in a novel.

But Dekker was more interested in estimating the Drydstubbes of this world than he was in achieving unity of effect. He had a bitter hatred for the coffee brokers of society, by which he meant practically all of the middle class of the Netherlands of his day and by implication of all the world. To make the world understand what the dividends of those coffee brokers were based on, the human sufferings of people better than themselves on the other side of the world, and then to make one of those coffee brokers tell the story against himself while under the impression that he is exalting himself and his class was a scheme worthy of the best powers of any satirist.

"Max Havelaar" is one of those books that are much more important in reality than they seem at the first reading. More than any story within the story is shot through with a sentimentalism that is distasteful to the present-day reader. But the total effect of the book is impressive and it grows as the story recedes. It probably has a right to be classed among the world's relatively few primary works of fiction.

Q. Is it true that ants eat mushrooms? S. E. C.

A. In Panama, Columbia and Venezuela ants of a certain variety cut fragments of leaves which they carry to their nests. On these leaves the ants deposit the spawn of mushrooms.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

WHAT ABOUT CORK?

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. Of all the three hundred varieties of oak, there is only one suitable for providing man with what has come to be considered a household necessity.

The next time you are vainly striving to pick up an unguessed cork from the neck of a bottle, instead of wracking your imagination for appropriate phrases, think of the smiling skies of the Mediterranean and a forest of gnarled old trees. Then you will have a picture of the cork oak that yields its bark to serve us in innumerable ways.

These picturesque trees are evergreens and resemble the evergreen oak of our California valleys. They are rather wide spreading, but rarely reach a height of more than 50 feet. It is in July and August that the bark is peeled from the average tree a coat about 15 feet long is taken, but often the limbs of the larger trees are stripped as well as the bark. The cork tree immediately begins to grow another coat which it will proffer to mankind after seven or eight years.

In the days of ancient Greece, fishermen used the cork to buoy up their nets, and as stoppers for their earthenware jars. With the advance of the glass production the demand for stopples increased, and at the present time, time we find the bark of this great tree made into floors, bath mats, fishing-trod handles, refrigerator cars, penholders, cigarette tips, life belts, and an endless chain of articles of equal value.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Princely sums are paid for the privilege of owning boxes in the famous "diamond horseshoe" of the Metropolitan.

A healthy sized office building in a small town could be built for the money that passes when one is sold. It is not often that a sale is executed, for an older society clings tenaciously to this symbol of high social rating and great care is taken that they do not fall into the hands of the nouveau riche.

Now $200,000 is a goodly figure to pay for the right to sit in an exclusive and widely advertised place, yet such was the figure brought when the first Vanderbilt box changed hands. The second of the Vanderbilt boxes went the other day for a similar amount.

The exorbitant sounding price, however, is partially accounted for by the fact that the ownership of a box entitles with it a one-third-fifth interest in the theatre and property.

For the high cost of seating second honors go to the stock exchange, where a theoretical seat may be bought for $180,000 with perhaps $10 worth of actual sitting being enjoyed per year. There are 1100 seats on the exchange and ownership of one indicates the definite arrival of the buyer as an important entity in Wall Street affairs.

Speaking of high costs, the accessories required for prohibition increase daily.

Stopping to glance in the windows of six Fifth Avenue jewelry and specialty shops I noticed an astounding portion of the space given over to drink containers and novelties for drinkables.

The latest in the "cost of arms corks"—made to fit any bottle—are placed initials, crests, coats of arms or designs, after the fashion of fancy motor caps.

There are also corks made to resemble silver statuettes.

Jewelers tell me that among the ritzy classes each bottle is given a distinctive cork and the little groups of serious drinkers go in for distinctive designs.

Artists who formerly were kept busy designing book plates now are called upon to make original monogram designs for the tops of corks.

Each week brings a new wrinkle in bottle carriers for midday. Some are trim leather handbags; some are made to resemble binocular cases; there seem to be thermos bottles that have suddenly grown handles.

And one parting word about our chorines: a bank report that reached my desk this morn shows a considerable number of chorus girls to be depositors.

Whatever their gentlemen friends prefer, they prefer bonds.

Q. Have railroad accidents increased or decreased in the past few years? C. H. B.

A. Statistics from the Interstate Commerce Commission show that since 1913 there has been a reduction of 21 per cent in the number of passengers killed on American railroads, 57 per cent in passengers injured, and 81 per cent in number of casualties due to train collisions.

Q. Does the Utah season for beavers open in the spring? O. S.

A. There is no open season for beavers in the State of Utah.

Q. In what years were the leg of mutton sleeves worn? B. G.

A. Leg of mutton sleeves were worn about 1895.

Q. Who rang the Liberty Bell at the signing of the Declaration of Independence? H. J. L.

A. Andrew McNair rang the Liberty Bell upon the occasion of the celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Q. Do any vegetable foods supply protein to the body? N. M.

A. Soy beans and peanuts are the only vegetable foods that can be thought of as supplying complete protein. As a class, vegetables have a slightly higher percentage of protein calories than cereals.

LENIENCY DURING EXAMS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A PARENT often displays a peculiar attitude toward a son or daughter in college whose education is costing a good bit of money. If the boy or girl happens to be working his way through or has secured a "scholarship," which provides for free education, I am inclined to believe that the average parent views the matter less personally and therefore less critically.

In other words, it is a decidedly human trait to want one's money's worth, and "getting our money's worth" in a college investment means passing marks.

There is of course more to it than that. I am not discounting the element of pride, but I have noticed less pressure put upon the child by parents as long as he is in high school than is brought to bear upon him after his education becomes a personal matter of dollars and cents.

I believe that parents don't know exactly how hard it is to get through college nowadays, or what credit attaches itself to the young man or woman who succeeds. Education, like everything else, has changed. It has become highly specialized and requires a concentration and endurance that older minds and constitutions could never stand.

I have read of six suicides of college students during the recent "mid-years." No doubt there were others of whom I did not hear. I know quite well a girl who last year made one of the highest averages in the United States on her college boards, but who went into hysterics over a mathematics examination in mid-year tests recently. She handed in an empty paper.

I do believe that half the time behind the bugaboo of the test lies the grim spectre of a disappointed parent. The strain on the boy or girl is sometimes more than can be borne.

Parents watch over children tenderly and carefully for years. They guard them from physical harm and mental shock.

Why then suddenly turn inquisitor and threaten dire punishment if they meet disaster at school?

Why not say, "Go and do the best you can, and I will understand." Young people are not likely to soldier on parents who are making a sacrifice to educate them. They are usually better sports than that.

Don't have them say, "It will kill Dad and Mother if I don't make good marks," and worry themselves into a nervous breakdown.

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE-1804-1864

"The world owes to this woman more than anyone but Hawthorne knew," wrote a friend at the death of Sophie Peabody, the girl Hawthorne married when he was well beyond the "first sentimental years." In fact, an early marriage did not apparently enter into the plans of the author of "The Marble Faun." Even going so far, it would appear from some papers which a friend has put into a book on the life of Hawthorne, as to waver a barrel of old Madeira on it.

"If I am a married man or a widower on the 14th day of November, 1836," says this old record, "I bind myself upon my honor to pay J—C— a barrel of the best old Madeira wine."

WITNESS

Nathaniel Hawthorne.

He married Sophie Peabody in 1836.

Nathaniel Hawthorne To His Wife

I do trust, my dearest, that you have been employing this bright day for both of us; for I have spent it in my dungeon, and the only light that broke upon me was when I opened your letter. I am sometimes driven to wish that you and I could mount upon a cloud (as we used to fancy in those heavenly walks of ours), and be borne quite out of sight, and hearing of the world; for how all the people in the world seem to come between us. How happy were Adam and Eve! There was no third person to come between them, and all the infinity around them only seemed to press their hearts closer together. We love one another as well as they; but there is no silent and lovely garden of Eden for us. Will you send away with me to discover some summer island? Do you not think that God has reserved one for us, ever since the beginning of the world? Foolish that I am to raise a question of it, since we have found such an Eden—such an island sacred to us two—whenever we have been together! Then we are the Adam and Eve of a virgin earth.

Now, good-bye; for voices are babbling round me and should not wonder if you were to hear the cho of them while you read this letter.

My Dearest — Your letter was brought to me at East Cambridge, this afternoon; otherwise I knew not when I should have received it, for I am so busy I know not whether I shall be at the Custom House these two or three days. I put it in my pocket, and did not read it till just now, when I could be quiet in my chamber; for I always feel if your letters were too sacred to be read in the midst of people, and (you will smile) I never read them without first washing my hands.

And so you have been ill and I cannot take care of you. Oh my dearest, do let our love be powerful enough to make you well. I will have faith in it. My dearest, I will not be much troubled, since you tell me (and your word is always truth) that there is no need. But, oh, be careful of yourself, remembering how much earthly happiness depends on your health. Be tranquil—let me be your Peace, as you are mine. Do not write to me, unless your heart be quiet, and you think that you can quiet it by writing. May God bless you!

... I came home as soon as I possibly could, and there was the package! I actually trembled as I unfolded it, so eager was I to behold them. There was never anything so lovely and precious in this world. They were perfect. So soon as the dust and smoke of my fire had evaporated, I put them on the mantelpiece, and sat a long time before them, painting a facsimile of them in my heart in whose most sacred chamber I shall keep a place forever and ever. I was not long in finding out the little white figure in the Menagerie. In fact, she was the very first object that my eye rested on. She came straight to my heart, and yet she remains just where you placed her. If it had not been for your strict injunctions that nothing must touch the pictures, I do believe that my lips would have touched that Sophie as she stands on the bridge. Do you think the pensive little damed would have laughed beneath my kiss? What a misfortune would that have been to her poor lover,—to find that he had kissed away his mistress! However, I shall refrain from all endearments, till you tell me they may be hazarded without fear of her taking it in ill part and absconding herself with-out leave.

My dearest, it is a very noble-looking cavalier with whom Sophie is standing on the bridge. Are you quite sure that he is the right person? Yet I need not ask; for there is Sophie to bear witness to his identity. Yes, it must be my very self; it is not my picture, but the very I; and as my inner self belongs to you, there is no doubt that you have caused my soul to pervade this figure.

I have put the pictures into my bedroom for the night, being afraid to trust them on the mantelpiece; but I cannot help going to feast my eyes upon them, every little while. I have determined not to hang them up now, for fear of the dust and the fingers of the chambermaid. Whenever I am away, they will be safely locked up. I shall want to express directions as to the height at which they ought to be hung, and the width of the space between them, and other minutest particulars. We will discuss these matters when I come home to you.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, crisp broiled bacon, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Spaghetti in casserole, radishes, bran muffins, stewed stuffed figs, milk tea.

DINNER—Cream of celery soup, broiled lamb chops, twice baked potatoes, braised sprouts in a cheese sauce, grapefruit, cherry and Brazil nut salad, baked date and nut pudding, graham rolls, milk, coffee.

A fruit salad is always delicious served with a French dressing and if it's a dinner salad after a heavy meat course the French dressing is imperative. However, if the meat course is light as in the menu suggested, or if a fruit salad is chosen for luncheon, the dressing may be a raw vegetable one or a rich boiled dressing made tart with lemon juice in place of vinegar.

SPAGHETTI EN CASSEROLE One cup spaghetti, 4 tablespoons chopped fat salt pork, 1 medium-sized carrot, 1 medium-sized onion, 2 large blades celery, 1 sweet pepper, 1-4 pound or about 4 mushrooms, 1-4 pound round steak 1 cup canned tomato rubbed through a sieve, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons dry cheddar cheese, 2 tablespoons sifted dried bread crumbs.

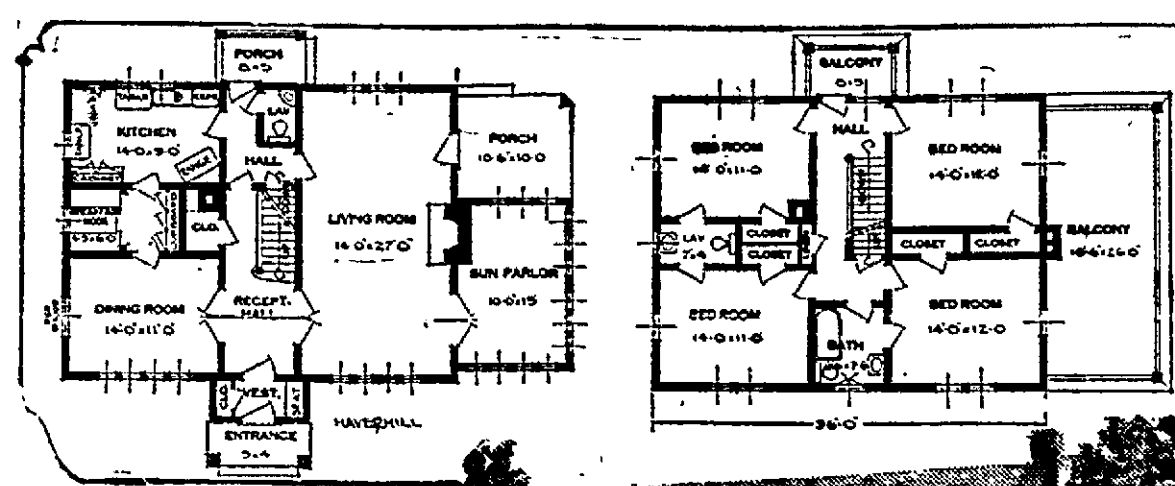

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water. Put one-half of the spaghetti into a well-buttered casserole. Put chopped salt pork in a hot frying pan and cook, stirring with a fork until the fat cooks out and bits of meat begin to brown. Do not let the pork cook too fast. Scrape carrot, onion, celery, mushrooms, and pepper from pan and peel mushrooms. Put these ingredients with round steak through food chopper.

Add to fat and pork in pan and cook, stirring occasionally with a fork until mixture begins to brown. Add tomato pulp with salt, pepper and sugar and bring to the boiling point. Pour over spaghetti in Casserole cover with remaining spaghetti, mix grated cheese and bread crumbs and sprinkle over top. Place in a moderately hot oven and bake until brown on top about 20 minutes. Serve from casserole.

GLAZED APPLES Slice fresh cooking apples and drop into a sugar syrup that has boiled two or three minutes. The apples will cook without losing their shape, and will be coated with a clear glaze.

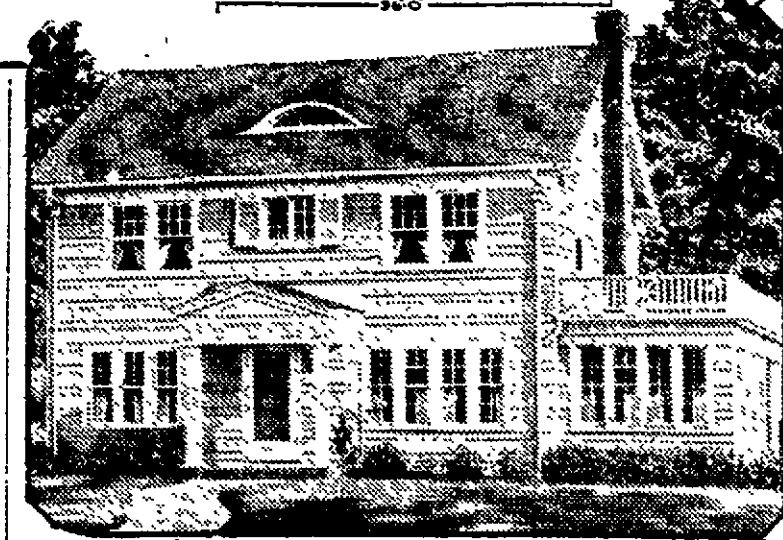

Large Living Room Is Emphasized In This Frame Structure, Known As The 'Haverhill'

Home lovers whose pet chamber is the living room, this plan, known as the "Haverhill," should particularly appeal. Letting out onto a spacious solarium and small back porch, the living room, 14 by 27 feet, lies across one entire end of the house. Three windows on the front two in the rear, and a large inviting open fireplace are additional attractions.

A frame model, this, of inexpensive construction.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Two automobiles were needed to carry the mass of flowers which had come from friends and strangers to testify sympathetically to the Lane family in their bereavement.

"People are kind," Faith murmured to Bob, as the undertaker's assistants piled the hundreds of wreaths and bouquets into the waiting automobiles. "They were trying to tell us they love in Cherry." But Mother would have been pleased if she could have known she was to receive so many flowers.

The official funeral party was made up of members of the family only, except for Bob Hawthorne, who would become one of the family upon his marriage with Faith. But the unofficial funeral train, which was more than half a mile long, was composed of hundreds of cars, filled with morbid sensation-seekers, and with reporters and cameramen. The Lanes tried to ignore that long line of cars, to achieve some small measure of privacy in their grief. A squad of policemen, ordered by Chief Morehouse to protect the family from annoyance, kept the crowds at bay at the gates of the cemetery, but at least a dozen reporters and two photographers slipped past the officers, who made little or no effort to detain them, and watched the final services almost at the elbows of the mourners.

The last rites over the body of Martha Lane were read by the Methodist minister who had "officiated" at the brief services at the Myrtle Street house. Faith shut her eyes, leaning heavily on Bob's arm, while her left hand gripped her father's hot, gnarled old fingers. She tried, with all her will-power, to disassociate the beautiful words of the burial service from the unctuous, professionally comforting voice of the fat old preacher who uttered them.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life, said the Lord."

But her mother was dead, dead, and Cherry was in prison, charged with a terrible crime, and she was left to carry the burden of the family and somehow, oh, God, somehow, somehow to save Cherry! Her ears strained again to catch a word of comfort from the deeply intoned, solemn words of the churchless, deathless ritual.

For as much as it hath pleased Almighty God in His Providence to take out of the world the soul of our deceased sister—"

Decided: The word was like a sharp knife turning in her heart. The mother whom she could remember as a strong, cheerful, willing worker, singing about the house, scolding and praising three troublesome little children—herself, Junior and an adorable little elf called Cherry—deceased! No, no, she had escaped from pain and sorrow and the disgrace of Cherry's trial for murder. Suddenly Faith knew that she was glad that her mother was dead.

4. If only she could have died without knowing that the most dreadful of calamities had overtaken the child she had adored above everything else on earth or in heaven—

"The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the Love of God and the Fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with us all evermore. Amen."

Faith opened her eyes, which had been streaming tears unheeded, and forced herself to watch them lower the coffin into the grave. When the first lumps of frozen earth clumped heavily upon the box, Joy, with a wild shriek of realization and despair, flung off her father's comforting arm and ran, before anyone could stop her, to the very brink of the grave.

"Mummy, Mummy! I want to go with you!" Joy's shrill voice rose and cracked on such agony as Faith had not dreamed the child was capable of.

It was Faith who reached her first, took the writhing, convulsed little body into her arms. "I'm going to be your Mummy now, darling, I'll be good to you, Joy."

TOMORROW: Cherry is arraigned on the charge of murder and her case

It was great to see the ostrich run and Clowzy had a heap of fun. They traveled down the sandy beach at quite a rapid pace. "Hey, hurry up," wee Clowzy cried to all others who had tried to keep up with the ostrich. But they dropped out of the race.

So Clowzy loudly shouted "Whoa!" I guess the ostrich didn't know just what that meant, or else he simply didn't want to stop. When 'bout a mile of beach was crossed, said Clowzy, "I will soon be lost. I've got to get down on the ground. Here's where I take a nap."

He quickly jumped up from the sand and balanced on his little feet. And then he waited for a chance to leap down to the ground. Just then the ostrich stopped dead still and Clowzy almost took a spill. Before he had a chance to jump the big bird looked around.

Real quickly Clowzy got a thrill. The ostrich grabbed him in his bill and swung him outward in the air. Then placed him on the sand. "Course Clowzy had no chance to mind. In fact, he thought the ostrich kind, but how the bird had learned such tricks he couldn't understand.

The other Times came in sight, quite pleased that Clowzy was all right. Then for a ride upon the bird they all began to beg. But Clowzy said, "I think it best that, for a time, we let him rest." And then they heard of Clowzy yell, "I've found an ostrich egg!"

They all began to shout, "Oh, gee! Tan and white striped flannel trousers worn with a tan coat are extremely popular at Palm Beach.

In every field of life—the child's study, the man's work, the woman's social activities—words play a leading role.
People judge you by the words you use and how you use them. They tell the measure of your ability, your education, and your culture.
Our Washington Information Bureau now has a new booklet on words. It is compiled by the best dictionary makers and treats of words we mispronounce, words we misspell, and words we misuse.

BEER RESOLUTION, DAVIS REJECTION, FEATURES OF WEEK

Committee to Probe State Highway Commission Also Is Appointed

Madison—(P)—Appointment of the committee that is to probe the state highway commission, failure of the state senate to confirm the governor's appointment of Benjamin U. Davis as commissioner of agriculture and the passage by the house of the "beer resolution" were the outstanding events in the state capitol during last week.

Governor Zimmerman appointed Mrs. John Martin, Green Bay; Harry W. Adams, Beloit; and Louis Foss, Milwaukee as members of the board of public affairs, and William H. Scott, Superior, to the grain commission, at the opening of the week.

After twice deferring the matter the senate took up the Davis appointment Wednesday. After a long debate, a cull of the house, under which all members absent must be brought back to vote, was voted by the body. It was lifted, however, when it was found that two members could not be brought back before that night, and the appointment was again argued upon the following day, finally being voted down. Forecasts then began to fly about the capitol as to the governor's next action—whether he would appoint another, or try again to have the senate confirm Mr. Davis.

SALARY INCREASE

In addition the assembly passed the joint resolution of Assemblyman Dunn asking an increase in legislator's salaries to $1,000 for their two years of service.
Governor Zimmerman appointed the legislative visiting committee, composed of Senators Carroll and England and Assemblymen Hiltner, Ganper, Dieringer and Mersch, as the legislative interim committee's recommendation that the committee be abolished states and 60 per cent in the ratio of the number of miles of highway to the number of miles in the whole state, by Eastman.

Can Scarcely Believe The Great Good Dreco Has Done Him

Well-known Appleton Citizen Says He Suffered so With Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism He Couldn't Work for Months At a Time.
"For months at a time I suffered so with stomach trouble and rheumatism I just had to stay home and let my men run my business," declared Mr. Gus Kranzsuch, 1314 N. Oneida St. this city, in a recent talk with the Dreco man at Schilitz Bros. Drug Store. Mr. Kranzsuch is the owner of the Home Services Co. and a well-known member of the L. O. O. M. and the Swedish Society.

"I had a sour and heavy feeling in my stomach and for years have only been able to eat the lightest foods and even they distressed me. At times I felt like I wanted to throw up my whole insides and I would belch so loudly I could be heard all the way across the room. As a result I lost weight and became merely a skeleton of my real self. I also suffered from constipation and rheumatism. Every joint and muscle in my body ached so badly I was practically a cripple. I believe Dreco has done for me what no other medicine could do."

Mr. H. W. C. Marr Baker, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schilitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him. adv.

Titus Says Government Is Facing Huge Deficit This Year

Fond du Lac—The Wisconsin state treasury will show a deficit of over $1,500,000 at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, Senator W. A. Titus of this city, chairman of the joint finance committee of the state legislature, declared on his return from the state capital.

Senator Titus previously had announced that the state faces a deficit of over $1,000,000. Further investigation has revealed, he asserts, that the deficit will be over a million and a half. A bill to restore the personal property effect, which was repealed by the Blaine tax revision measure two years ago, is being prepared by Senator Titus.

"The finance committee finds that it is facing a serious problem," Senator Titus said. "My bill for the consolidation of boards and commissions will be ready for introduction again next week, and until some such measure is adopted that will eliminate some of our surplus machinery of government it seems almost impossible to get expenditures down to the basis of receipts."

"The return of the personal property effect is one of the features of my plan, but equally important is the returning to localities, the cities and counties, of a proper share of the tax."

Senator Titus' bill proposes changing the basis of distributing revenue derived from income taxes, possibly on the basis of 65 per cent to cities, 25 per cent to counties, and 10 per cent to the state. Cities now get 50 per cent, counties 10 per cent, and the state 40 per cent.

Public Saved Columns Of Dull Reading By Editors

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—In case some of you think Washington news is a bore and that Washington correspondents ought to take four or five days off every week you may be interested to hear of the vast amount of "news" with which the reading public is not afflicted due to the forbearance of editors and correspondents. MERCHANTS WILL BUY FLAGS WITH SLOGANS

C. W. Hays of the Hays Engineering Co., of Grinnell, Iowa, spent Saturday in Appleton on the invitation of local merchants to solicit orders for flags to be placed in on College-ave. Recently the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion requested local merchants to use the American flag only on patriotic holidays and to use some other type for "Appleton" days, such as conventions and style shows.

The flags for local events probably will contain the words, "Welcome to Appleton" or "You'll Like Appleton" or some similar local advertising slogan. Flags of orange, blue and white seemed to be favored by the majority of the merchants.

BLONDE AND BRUNETTE WOMEN COME TO BLOWS—VERBALLY

Both have outlined their reasons for being satisfied with the tinting Providence gave them. Here you are:

The Advantage of Being a Blonde by Greta Nissen

1. Blondes can be seen farther away.

2. Blondes don't have to worry about grey hair.

3. Blondes look younger.

4. A blonde "vamp" can work without being suspected. Everybody thinks vamps are always dark.

The Advantage of Being a Brunette. By Arlette Marchal

1. The closer you are to a brunette the more you like her.

2. Brunettes don't worry about anything.

3. Brunettes are generally younger.

4. Brunettes have a reputation for constancy. They're never expected to be fickle so they're never found out.

5. Brunettes can wear tailored clothes; blondes can't.

6. Gentlemen

7. Marry

8. Brunettes. They just step out with blondes.

The blonde and brunette controversy has become so heated that it is thought possible that a photo-play showing a blonde winning a man from a brunette, or vice-versa, might cause rioting and rock-throwing in the larger peroxide and henna centers.

In the case of "Blonde or Brunette," arriving at Fischer's Appleton Theatre, it has been decided to keep the winner a secret. The hero marries both and then—

PAULINE STARKE GIRL BURG-LAR IN FOX PRODUCTION

Pauline Starke, masked as a private at a fancy dress ball, and Johnnie Walker, in the uniform of a masked Cossack, bungling an attempt to steal a diamond necklace, is one of the big scenes in "Honesty The Best Policy," at the New Bijou today and Tuesday.

Rockliffe Followes, cast as the detective, pursuing the pirate girl about hairpin turns of desert and mountain roads until their cars crash on a narrow hillside road, is another of the sequences which is full of thrills.

Grace Darmond adds a sensational episode as she jumps from the roadster which she has in readiness for the girl crook's escape and gives her a chance to elude the detective.

A touch of comedy is added when the crooks in eluding the police, dash into a dental office, bind and gag the dentist and his assistant, and then pretend to work over a patient unconscious from gas.

As an amateur dentist Walker is a great success and Pauline Starke a competent partner.

APPLETON PINBUSTERS LEAD STATE MAPLE MEET WITH 3,016

Hoppies Wieners Smash Maples Hard To Shove Kaw Rivals From Lead

Fries, Strutz Lead Mates in Rolling 3rd Highest All-time Score

Clouting the pins so hard that no member of the team rolled under 500 for three games and two of the quint sent more than 600 pins into the pins, Hoppies Wieners of Appleton shot their way to first place in the state bowling tournament on the Big Ed Altes at Racine Saturday night, replacing the Electric City team, their ancient Kaukauna rivals, who took the lead a week ago Saturday. The Appleton pinner led by Frank Fries and H. Strutz, collected games of 845, 1008 and 1068 for a total of 3,016, the first 3,000 score bowled in a state meet since 1916, and the third bowled since the inauguration of the state tourney in 1902, 25 years ago.

Only two teams have beaten the score, Night Hawks of Milwaukee totaling 3015, just two pins more in 1913 and the Schroeder and Dahls of Milwaukee scoring the highest, 3055, in 1916. Both these teams won the event and in the other 25 years 299 teams scored the title. Bowling critics predict that the score of the local team will be high enough to win the state title this year. Appleton is the only city outside of Milwaukee ever to have a team hit over 3000 in a state pin event.

Fries scored games of 184, 255 and 254 to lead the Appleton pinner. Strutz shot 210, 211 and 201 for a 625. Fries score of 845 was two pins higher than H. Minkbeke's when he led Kaukauna into the lead last week. The 254 single game also was one of the highest marks in the meet and if Fries keeps up his good work he will land high in the all-events as well, it is thought.

The box score follows:
F. Fries 184 255 254—693
H. Strutz 210 211 201—622
Totals 3,016 1,063—3,016

Two other noteworthy totals were registered. Fries, Kohler, gathered 2,890 on 349, 327 and 214, while the Benby Recreations, Fort Atkinson, counted 2,827 on 951, 972 and 954.

J. Jones, South Milwaukee, went in to second place in the singles Saturday by hitting the wood for a 717 total. Starting with 194 in his first game, Jones followed with 245 and 278. He spared in the first frame of the last game and then turned in nine straight strikes. He missed the head pin on his next shot however. A strike would have placed him in first place of the singles.

In the doubles feature two Fond du Lac experts, G. Paquin and Lawrence Mertz, starred, gathering a 1,245 total.

NEENAH MEN'S HIGHS
J. Muench and P. Kobs representing Neenah, counted 1,230 in the 2-men test. Muench chalked up 630 on 159, 210 and 222, while Kobs registered 199, 200 and 192 for 600 even.

SHEIKS BACK ON TOP IN KIMBERLY LEAGUE

Kimberly — Huntington's Sheiks took the lead again in the Kimberly Boys Saturday morning Basketball league by whipping the tail end Aces, 30-11. Le May's Buckeyes advanced nearer to the second place Bears by taking an easy win from the Midgets by a 31-13 count. The game scheduled between the Bears and the Frenchmen was called off due to the absence of some players.

In the junior loop Rusty's Wildstars took another slip when Hopkins stars set them back to the tune of a 10-2 defeat.

WEEK'S GAMES

MONDAY—LAWRENCE AT COE

Wednesday—Ripon at Beloit

Friday—Carroll at Ripon (W-I)

Unable to hold a four-point lead which they had taken early in the second half, Coach George Christoph's Lawrence college cagers fell under a barrage of Coe college baskets in the final minutes of the half to drop a Midwest conference struggle to the Kohawks Saturday evening at Cedar Rapids by a 29-22 score. The Blues outplayed the Hawks the early part of the game, but were unable to stem the tide when the home crew launched a desperate rally in the last period.

Sundt, center, and Briese veteran guard, led the Blue hopes with three baskets each and Briese added a free try. Grove and Briese starred on defense and Hilton, playing his first game since he became eligible at the second semester worked in well at center, scoring two baskets and a free try. St. Mitchell, frosh center, is ineligible and did not accompany the Blues. H. Lamb and Hubbard starred for Coe with three baskets and two free throws and three and one, respectively.

The less sent the Bluelmen from sixth to eighth just above Beloit. They play the undefeated Cornell squad at Mount Vernon Monday evening. A win will place the Blues back in sixth and shoot Cornell to third. Cornell is a heavy favorite.

Ripon, in fourth place, will play Beloit in a Midwest game this week and Keds next week. On its W-I card the Reddy play Carroll a return game this week and finish against Lawrence next week.

FOUR GRAPPLERS READY FOR BOUTS

Hill vs Hamey, Hans Bauer vs McCloud Schedule for Tuesday

German mat men will predominate on the mat card Promoter Elmer Johnson is staging at Armory G-Tuesday evening, for besides Hans Bauer, the scrappy grappler of Milwaukee, who is scheduled to exchange grips with Dan "Farmer" McCloud of Los Angeles, he has secured the signature of George Hill to a set of articles, a basket and a free try and played a fine floor game. St. Mitchell scored three ringers, Welch one and a free try and Farwell another. Farwell played a good defensive game. Green was the high scorer for the losers with three baskets and two free tries for 8 of 15 points. Muenster and Ratzman added a basket each, Behnke added two free tries and Schultze one.

In the first game the K-C men lead only 6-3 at the half in a tight defensive struggle, but poor shooting on several easy tries by the Bankers in the final period spoiled their play and they scored but a single ringer, while the Kimberlites garnered five. With good shooting the Bankers might have downed their rivals. Every man on the K. C. team scored at least one ringer with Van Ryin and Boettcher leading the way. The former scored three and the latter two. Boettcher also played a strong floor game.

The best game this week will bring the Kaw five, with Algeo back in a suit, against the strong Coated team. The Coateds are favorites but the return of Algeo gives Kaukauna a chance for victory. In the other Tuesday game Fox River shot whip Co. D and on Sat day Kimberly-Clark and the Bankers should defeat the Riverdicks and Galpins without much trouble.

Madison — Coach A. L. Masler's smooth working balanced Wisconsin gymnastic team piled up a total of 2,176 points against 1,152 of the strong Minnesota performers to give the Badgers a running start in the struggle for Big Ten gymnastic supremacy here Saturday. The exhibition was headily contested throughout the afternoon, each team scoring a lead intermittently during the contest.

Carl Neller of the Cardinals started three events, the horizontal and parallel bars and rings.

The decided advantages garnered by the Cardinal gymnasts in several of their performances staved away sufficient points to set the Badgers sliding to victory when the exercises were concluded. Statistics showing how the two squads stalked up follow:

Horizontal Bars—Wis, Minn. 205.5; Side Horse—Wis, Minn. 229.5; Rings—Wis, Minn. 227.4; Parallel Bars—Wis, Minn. 227.4; Tumbling—Wis, Minn. 181.5; Clubs—Wis, Minn. 80.

Bad luck attended the contest which the Badger natators staged with Michigan here Saturday. The Wolverine Fish passed the Cardinal tanksters in all events except diving and the breast stroke race. Ratcliff and Hat-terberg of Wisconsin scored first and second respectively on the spring board and but poor shooting on several easy tries by the Bankers in the final period spoiled their play and they scored but a single ringer, while the Kimberlites garnered five. While Iowa swept through the Wisconsin track forces at Iowa City last Saturday, 52 to 23, the Badgers carried off high point-man honors in the person of Capt. McGinnis, who accumulated 15 points to gain the distinction. A clean sweep in the shot put and 60 yard dash gave Iowa her advantage.

Zola's victory over Hulm, famous Iowa runner, and the win of McGinnis over Captain Boyle, the great Iowa relay captain, featured the meet. Wisconsin swept through the following events in excellent fashion with initial positions: Pole Vault—McGinnis, 112 ft. 8 in.; Two Mile Run—Zola, 9:25.0; High Jump—McGinnis, 6 ft. 1/2 in.; Half Mile—Ericksen, 1:52.5.

Cardinal Cagers Show Well To Beat Maroons

Madison—Performing in a style that could not be doubted by the most strategic basketball plot in Big Ten circles, Wisconsin romped over Chicago here last Saturday night like a break wind over a yielding burndland. The score was 31 to 20.

The Cardinal machine, opening up an offense that was clogged in de-termination and ability to keep the score column bulging, bolstered by a defense that dazzled the flashy Maroon contingent, developed in magni-tude that Chicago was never able to cope with to any effective degree.

Wisconsin, by virtue of the manner in which she carried herself against the Midway five, bids far to view with optimism the Western Conference cage crown for the season. Only Michigan stands unyielding at the port of that organization.

"Doc" Meanwell appears to have found at last a combination that will see Wisconsin through a victorious year. Behr and Andrews at forward, Tammien at center, and Kowalezyk and Barrum at guard round out the Badger master quintet.

The Badgers unraveled a wild pegging match early in the Maroon engagement, which displayed their pent-up enthusiasm but added nothing to their score column. Once onto their customary stride, Wisconsin began a drive - that Chicago was unable to check.

Chicago put up a desperate and scrappy game, putting into play the complicated formations with which it has deftly dethroned Indiana recently. But it refused to function against Wisconsin.

There were no starlets in the Cardinal ranks with the Cardinal quintet acting in unison. Chicago's mainstays appeared in Sackett, Hoogor, Gist and Zimmerman.

First call for track candidates for the 1927 teams was issued at two Wisconsin-Illinois conferences colleges this weekend when Coaches George Christoph of Lawrence and Carl Doehling of Ripon sounded the initial tocsin. Workouts at both schools are scheduled to start on Monday and indoor practices will be held three days a week until the weather permits outdoor work, probably early April. The indoor work will consist mostly of conditioning exercise for various forms of track competition.

Several men with varsity experience will report for the Blue team lead by Capt. Bob Hipke, who last year set a W-I record in the shot put and also competes in the Javelin, discus and high jump. Other experienced Bluelmen in school are Nason, pole vault, broad jump and Javelin; Artz, shotput, discus and Javelin; Don and Doug Hyde, dashes and hurdles; Kingsbury, distances; McConnell, high and broad jump, pole vault and hurdles; Menning, half mile; Purvis, distances, Rohan, hurdles; Mueller, distances; Humphrey, Fieschl and Jones, 440 and 880; Heldeman, Javelin; Bayer, hurdles.

Stair, 1925 captain a sprinter, and Pittner, a distance man, are the only big losses to the squad, while several of fresh look good for high marks, especially Rohan, who won the all-campus cross-country meet, in the distances. McConnell, a first-place man in four events, may be unable to compete this year, which would be a hard blow to Blue title hopes.

KOHLER CAGE TEAM HAS CRACK LINEUP

Loose Brings Experienced Five to Kimberly for Loop Game Thursday

Kimberly-Louie Loose, former Bushy Business college and Kimberly-Clark Athletic cage performer, will lead his class Kohler cage team on the floor at Kimberly clubhouse Thursday evening to do battle with the K-C Athletics in a State League basketball game, the first at Kimberly for two weeks. The Athletics are fresh from a road trip on which they won three straight games in four days, two of their league contests, to move back among the first three teams of the circuit, back into the running.

Loose's five last year was one of the best in the state and swept Plymouth and Sheboygan aside to win the Sheboygan County championship. Backing Loose are such performers as Kinsman, former Drake University center, who now works at guard; Badura of Freeport, Ill., who gained his first fame and experience with Freeport and Rockford pro squads; Steimle, formerly of the Denver A. C. team which traveled through the country a few years ago won most of its Wisconsin games; Wilbur, former Sheboygan high forward; and Cameron, another former chair city high and a regular at Ripon college.

Last year Kohler took two of three games from Kimberly, winning both times at Kimberly. Kimberly beat Kohler at Kohler earlier this year and is determined to break the home floor jinx and take the deciding game of the five Thursday night.

Prospects for an eight-team league to replace the six-team circuit of the last two years in the Fox River Valley Baseball League were bright Monday as the result of the meeting of league officers and team representatives Sunday afternoon at the Conway hotel at which Menasha was granted the franchise left vacant by the withdrawal of Fond du Lac. WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

To the home of PROF and MOLLIE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1898, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night twin girls are born to her and she dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are called RUSTY and BETTY. JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at Sedan and reported dead. Much later he is identified in a New York hospital, where his parents find him with his speech and memory gone. He is like a living dead man.

The day before his parents are to take him home, Jim wanders away from his nurse, NEL DOWNING. Late that night he is found in Bellevue hospital with his skull fractured, expected to die.

The twins are in Indianapolis at the home of their uncle, JOHN CLAYTON, the mystery of their identity having been cleared while Jim was away. Some time later Mollie writes to them that Jim will live but his memory is forever gone.

The day before the Elwells are expected back, the twins have an unpleasant encounter with FREDDIE LAWRENCE, a society nuisance, and Rusty, his twin with her shoe, John Clayton comes in with a telegram shortly after, saying it is from MIKE HENNEGAN, the soldier who had identified Jim.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

CHAPTER XLII
NOW BEGIN THE STORY

"You mean," Rusty asked, "Mike Hennegan is coming here?"
"Precisely. But before I go into detailed explanations suppose you enlighten me as to what has taken place in here, Freddie. I see he's gone, and both of you wear guilty looks. I am suspicious. Has Freddie been acting up again?"

Freddie, Betty explained, had met the enemy and had been vanquished. "The enemy," he smiled, "seems fond of doing just that to Freddie. Come, now, what happened?"

"Well," began Rusty, "he had an awful nerve. There I was sitting at the piano, playing for his benefit—"

Hardly for his benefit, her uncle contradicted. "I heard, myself, the atrocities you were committing."

"Well, you know I don't play very well."

"I am interrupting you," he acknowledged. "Tell your story in your own way. I beg your pardon."

"As I said," she went on, gathering confidence, "he an awful nerve. What do you suppose he tried to do to Betty?"

"Are you inviting me to guess?"

"Yes sir."

"He probably tried to kiss her."

"Exactly. And after what she had done to him the time he tried it before. You remember that?"

John Clayton did. He nodded, smiling, but his eyes held something of a resentful glint. Freddie Lawrence would hear more from this.

Betty picked up the story. "I never expected it, of course. The first thing I knew he was trying to bend my face up to his. He grabbed me and held me so tightly that he hurt me. And—and he had been drinking. I'm sure of it."

Yes, her sister supplemented he had smelled like a distillery.

"And I don't know what would have happened if it hadn't been for Rusty and her shoe."

"Eh? Her shoe? You surprise me, my dears."

"Rusty was sitting at the other end of the room. She turned around and saw us and then she slipped her shoe off her foot and threw it at Freddie."

"And Freddie got hit," said the young pitcher.

"Oh, he did?"

"Yes, sir," Betty informed him, "rather hard. He sat down all of a sudden."

"Let me get this straight," said Clayton. "You, Margaret, were over on this side of the room and Elizabeth was over there with Freddie?"

Yes that was true.

"And you threw all that way and hit him?"

"Yes."

"Weren't you afraid of hitting your sister? Their heads must have been fairly close together."

"I took good aim," said Rusty.

"Oh, I see," Clayton could maintain his gravity no longer. He threw back his head and laughed long and loudly. The twins perceiving all danger of calling down had vanished, joined him.

"Well," he said finally, "you did exactly right under the circumstances. I congratulate you. And now about Mike Hennegan."

To go back to Mike Hennegan and his elevator job at the hospital on Long Island, Mike, as Nellie Downing well knew when he had been given his job, had a great failing. That was his weakness for the game known as craps.

In several of his letters Prof had mentioned Mike's kindnesses to John Clayton and the twins and Clayton had made up his mind that there was another person who had done something that entitled him to some kind of reward.

On one morning when he should have been running his elevator, Mike was down, in the basement shooting craps with some of the engineer's best assistants. It was not the first time since he had been on his new job, and the superintendent reflected sadly when he came upon them, it was not likely to be the last, and that was why he would have to fire him.

Mike was in the midst of an eloquent appeal to the dice to turn over and be good and to show eight spots for him.

"Eighty from Deceatur," he coaxed.

"Is. I shoot the four dollars."

"Man," came from one of his "faders," "stop cratin' so much. You is talkin' all the spots off'n 'em."

"I am," announced Mike, "about to throw an eleven. Come on, little die, rise up and—

He got no farther. Confronting him was the superintendent. The other offenders had fled.

The superintendent shook his head sadly. "I am afraid, Mike," he said, "that you've had your last chance. A week from today we get a new man for the elevator."

"Yes, sir," and Mike saluted. "Don't blame you."

That evening he was in Bellevue hospital, talking to Prof and Mollie Elwell. He had plenty of time on his hands now, he announced cheerfully, and they could call on him at any time they wanted him to do something.

Prof began to think. "Mike," he said, "Mr. Clayton of Indianapolis—that's the uncle of the twin girls we raised, you know—has written to me and told me that if there's anything he could do for you he'd like to do it. He suggested that you come home with him and act as a sort of male nurse and bodyguard for a while. Now, since you're out of a job, would you like to do it?"

"When," asked Mike, "do we leave?"

"Tomorrow."

"I'll be right there, Captain. Any further orders?"

"Oh, just pack up your things and be ready, Mike; that's all."

Mollie ventured, a little timidly: "Perhaps it will be very tiresome for Mike."

"If it is," said Prof, "Mr. Clayton has a job down in Indianapolis that would fit Mike like a glove."

"Yes, sir," said Mike, "and now I want to see Jim. It's been a week since I've had a good look at him."

"So that's why Mike's coming along with Jim," John Clayton was explaining.

He exhibited it. The twins read: "Absolutely and much obliged, Mike Hennegan."

"And now," said John Clayton, "that Freddie has been disposed of so nicely and you're already to go tomorrow, I want you to kiss me good night. I must go out and I shall be late. Remember, now," he added hastily, "don't throw any shoes."

They kissed him and he moved on. The butler helped him on with his coat, handed him his hat and closed the door behind him.

"Now," said Rusty, "we'll tell Martha Dalton and then forget all about Freddie. Perhaps she'll get a laugh out of it."

Martha Dalton most certainly did. Until she very nearly cried.

"Rusty, I remember," she said, "the night you two and Jim sneaked into my house for supper because you didn't want to exhibit Jim's black eye with the beefsteak on it to Mollie and Prof. That was the day that Rusty threw the croquet ball. My dear, please don't go in for bombs."

Up in Bellevue hospital the room which had been occupied by Jim Elwell for several weeks was empty. That day he dressed himself,

That night Mr. Lawson, sitting alone in his study in a fashionable Park avenue apartment, was contemplating the uncertainties of the medical profession. He thought of Jim Elwell and Mollie and Prof, and a puzzled little frown creased the skin above his eyes. He tapped with his pencil on the table.

That same night Nellie Downing, suddenly confronted with the reflection that she had not seen Jack Nevill for a week now, called up the city room of the Planet.

Presently he was on the wire. "Yeah? This is Nevill."

"This is Nellie Downing, Jack."

"Oh, by golly it's good to hear your voice again. Haven't seen you in a month."

"A week," she corrected.

"Is that all? Seems like a month, anyway. Could a fellow call tomorrow night? It's my night off."

A fellow could, it seemed.

"By the way, Jack, I called you up to tell you I was prepared to make amends."

"Amends? What do you mean?"

POLICE SEEK PENSION IN 4TH CLASS CITIES

A resolution seeking to make pensioning of police officers compulsory in fourth class cities, and prepared by the pension committee of the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police association for presentation to the state legislature, was submitted to the attorney general Thursday for examination.

Members of the pension committee are Chief George T. Prim of Appleton, Chief R. H. McCarthy of Kaukauna, and Chief H. C. Baker of Itasca. Chief Prim also is president of the state police association. All were present at Madison at the meeting with the attorney general.

Pensioning of police officers now is compulsory in only the first, second and third class cities, according to Chief Prim. Officers may be pensioned in fourth class cities, but the action is not compulsory.

Police work has become almost as dangerous in fourth class cities as in those of larger size, according to Chief Prim, and all officers should be given the benefit of the pension fund.

Germans have experimented successfully with electric fertilization by drawing electrically charged wires through the ground.

"You remember that I once cheated you out of a good story?"

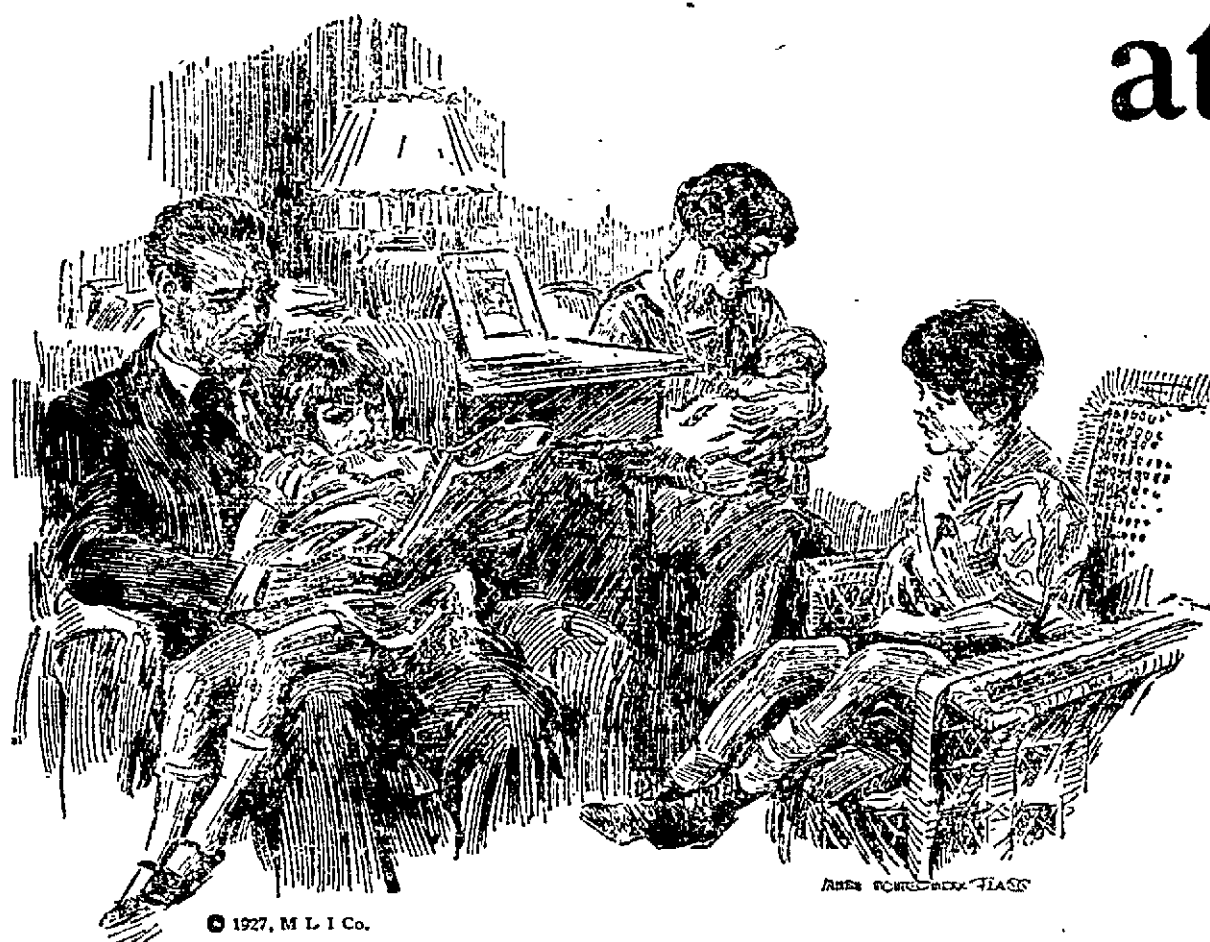

"Well, cheated was hardly the word. I remember paying my respects to a lovely pair of eyes."

"Behave. Tomorrow night, when you call, Jack, I'll have another story for you—much better than the first. With pictures and everything."

(To Be Continued)

What is the story that Nellie Downing has for Jack Nevill? In the next chapter Jim starts home.

The Value of Human Life at all ages

"Broke"—but Worth $79,100

Dad earns $50 a week. He has just paid the rent, the grocery bill and the milk bill. He says he is "broke, but happy".... In reality, he and his family are worth a small fortune.... This American family represents $79,100 of the nation's wealth.

ALMOST any man will agree that his life is more valuable to himself than the things he owns. Now he can have the comfort of knowing how valuable his life is to others—from a dollars-and-cents standpoint.

Today it is known that the lives of our men, women and children are the nation's greatest asset. The economic value of these lives completely overshadows the value of all of our material wealth.

Recent computations made by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show the real economic value of the lives of our people from babyhood to old age. These figures are based on the average family—with an average income—and take into consideration the average length of life of each member of the family, together with the cost of bringing children into the world, feeding them, clothing them, educating them and bringing them up to a self-supporting basis.

Long lives and short lives—small incomes and big incomes—are reckoned in these calculations. At 40, a man earning $100 a week is rated as having an economic value of $45,670. At 30, the $50-a-week man represents a value of $31,000. He had a value of $9,333 the day he was born.

—And then come the figures showing the total economic value of all the men, women and children of the United States—the astounding total of 1,500 billion dollars ($1,500,000,000,000).

* If you wish to find out how much each member of your family is worth, economically, send for a booklet recently prepared by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. It tells how a person of any age may measure the economic value of his or her life. It will be mailed free.

Perhaps the easiest way to realize this stupendous figure is to compare it with the total value of the entire material wealth of our country.

The latest available government reports show that everything we own—land, buildings, railroads, mines, raw materials, manufactured products, crops, live stock—everything included—was 321 billions.... Our lives are worth nearly five times as much as our property.

America can well be proud of the additional insurance placed on the valuable lives of her people in 1926. More than 16 billion dollars ($16,000,000,000) was written and revived during the year by about 300 life insurance companies—making the total amount of life insurance in force approximately 80 billion dollars ($80,000,000,000). About one sixth of the grand total is carried by the Metropolitan.

But while the people of this country carry 80 billion dollars of life insurance—or only one-twentieth of the economic value of their lives—they carry more than 160 billions of insurance on property—more than one-half of its value.

You would not insure a $5,000 house for $250—one twentieth of its value. You insure it adequately. But have you insured yourself adequately? Send for the booklet which tells you what you are worth. Study it. Then decide whether or not you carry enough insurance to protect your family.

America is rapidly gaining a better knowledge of the value of its greatest wealth—human lives.

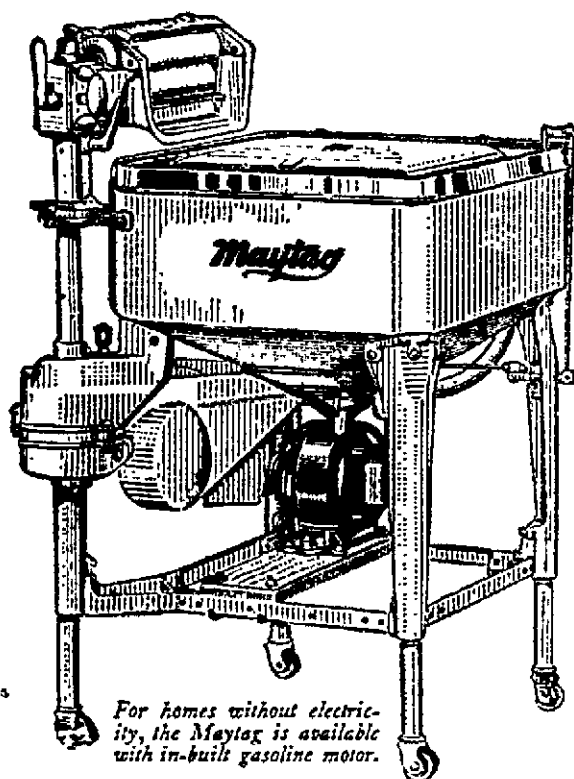

The America of the future will better safeguard its wealth and happiness.

NEW LONDON DEBATE TEAM DEFEATS TRIO AT KEWAUNEE, 2-1

List of Victories Points to Entrance in State Championship Contest

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—With a victory of 2 to 1 added to its score for all forensic contests, New London's high school affirmative team returned early Saturday morning from Kewaunee where it debated the question adopted by the state forensic board, "Resolved that the Constitution be Amended so as to Provide for the Initiative and Referendum Form of Government as Proposed in the 1925 Legislature."
Those on the team were Alice Follenz, Dorothy Gorges and James Mulroy, with William Dancy as alternate. R. J. McMahon and B. A. Lahr of the high school faculty, accompanied the students.

Mr. McMahon explained that the schools of the state are divided in three sections, northern, middle and southern sections. After all schools eligible to the inter-school debates have contested, the state board in charge of debating will select three teams, one from each section of the state, which will enter the elimination contests. In these final contests the one holding final title will be awarded the state championship.
Attendance at the debates held in this city has been exceptionally large of late. Attention has been called to the forensic events by special invitations issued by the faculty of the high school. Business men and women, as well as parents of children, are attending to the pleas for good attendance and for interest in educational features generally.

The Little Old Flivver Aint What It Used To Be

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Thaws of recent days have reduced New London's downtown streets to a conglomeration of arterial lanes. It takes a motoring artist to negotiate the streets, for the ruts are so deep that in but few places can one reach parking space. There is in most cases, one way traffic with no left or right turns. Driving about trying to find a suitable corner to turn constitutes an amusing game. If one fails to jump the rut at the first trial he must go on through the whole town

Complete Lubrication Saves Dollars

Thousands of motorists have accepted Iso-Vis, the new constant viscosity motor oil. Enthusiasm over this new and better lubricating oil is keen and widespread. Why? The motor runs smoother and better.
With Iso-Vis in the crankcase, the frictional surfaces are protected at all times by a cushion of oil—for Iso-Vis overcomes dilution. It maintains its viscosity (lubricating efficiency) until it is drained off. It costs a little more (30c per quart) but less per mile. Try it! You will like it! For extreme cold weather Iso-Vis "Light" is recommended.
If you feel that you are able to control the dilution factor in your car yourself, and yet want maximum lubrication at minimum expense, use Polarine. Made in six grades—25c per quart. There is a grade made expressly for your car and that grade will lubricate thoroughly the remotest frictional surfaces of your motor.
Get Iso-Vis or Polarine at any Standard Oil Service Station or at any authorized garage or filling station displaying the emblems shown above.

COUNTY BOARD TO MEET TUESDAY FOR FEBRUARY SESSION

Road Program and Snow Removal Expected to Be Discussed by Supervisors

The 1927 road improvement program, snow removal, proposed enlargement of the Riverview sanatorium, and resolutions from other counties are matters expected to be brought to the attention of the county board at its February session, starting at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 15.

The board has four days in which to complete its business, but unless some unexpected proposals arise to prolong discussion, it is believed the board will be able to adjourn Thursday.

Just what, if anything, will be done about snow removal is problematic. A resolution from the Outagamie Medical Society, favoring keeping the highways open for motor traffic, was adopted by the society Jan. 20, and a copy sent to John E. Hantschel, county clerk.

The board's attention also will be drawn to a resolution adopted last fall by the county board to refrain from advertising any further laws relating to snow removal from roads.

The Green-co supervisors adopted the resolution in the belief that it is impossible to prescribe rules covering snow removal applicable throughout the state, and the fact of "State" intervention to influence the legislature to pass laws making it mandatory upon counties to keep roads open. "Counties can care for emergencies themselves, and should be permitted to do so, according to the resolution."

Because of the tax controversy between Appleton and the county, the final road improvement program for 1927 has not yet been laid out. A definite amount for this purpose probably will be fixed at the approaching session, and the highway tax to be included in the budget.

Some dissatisfaction at the way Mother's Pension is being operated has been expressed by several counties, and the Outagamie supervisors may express themselves on this matter. Although there is a law providing the cost of the state's pension is to be borne by the state, the cost of the pension is not being living up to this provision, according to Mr. Hantschel.

One resolution urging the legislature to repeal the Mother's Pension is on hand, and three or four others have been received from other counties.

The board will be asked to act on a resolution proposing enlargement of Riverview sanatorium Dr. C. C. D. Boyd, a trustee of the sanatorium, last week was authorized to prepare the resolution. The trustees are taking considerable capacity of the institution.

Considerable opposition also has been expressed by other counties toward decreasing state funds from taxes on automobiles or diverting automobile funds for expenditure on city streets instead of on rural highways.

Some more resolutions to be considered from other counties are:

Proposal to raise the indemnity on cattle found tubercular from $40 to $80 a head.

Proposal to modify the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines.

Proposal to have superintendents of county institutions appointed by the county boards instead of by the trustees of the institutions.

Proposal to amend the laws to make it impossible to change the routes of state trunk highways contrary to action of county boards.

CAL READY TO VETO HAUGEN RELIEF BILL

It is fully presented it is understood that there will be a division of sentiment. At least the president's veto message will be something around which the more or less conservative element in the Republican party can rally.

Opponents of the McNary bill concede that the president's veto message will crystallize sentiment and make a clear-cut issue. It will of course be a dominant political issue with the forces of former Governor Lowden of Illinois taking up the cause on the McNary bill. It might even transpire that Vice President Charles G. Dawes will enter the debate for he has a right to his opinion even though they may differ from those of the chief executive. He has been participating in conferences of senators looking toward the adoption of the McNary bill in the senate and the vote has been in favor of the measure.

PRICE FIXING ISSUE

The whole debate centers around the question of price-fixing. The Democrats, who originally opposed the bill and switched to its favor, enter the debate for it is a matter of fixing domestic prices and that if the Republican policy of a protective tariff is acceptable to the country so should the equalization fee for the farmer be accepted.

When the president would veto the bill has spread through Capitol hill and it may have the opposite effect from that which is usually expected, namely, to turn regular Republicans away from the measure. On the contrary, since a veto is certain and the legislation cannot possibly become law because of the president's attitude not a few Republicans from farm districts who have been on the fence will get themselves on record in favor of the bill knowing full well no actual test of the merits of the measure will be made.

Not that the vote will be given to the measure, but the fact that the time the December session begins they will have stirred up enough sentiment to swing more votes to the bill.

STOCK PRICES KEEP UPWARD TENDENCY

Unusually Favorable 1926 Earnings Stimulate Demand for Rails

New York—(AP)—Resumption of trading, after the double holiday for the course of stock prices still upward, in the early hours of the day were recorded by American Smelting, General Electric and General Motors.

New Haven crossed at the highest price in 10 years, with heavy accumulation also apparent in Wabash common, which climbed over a point in the first few minutes of trading.

Publication of an unusually favorable 1926 earnings report by the Baldwin Locomotive company, showing over $22 million in net income, a common stock last year, as against a deficit the year before, stimulated the demand for the railroad equipment issues. Baldwin sold down over a point at the opening and then rallied to 24 1/2.

Large investment following with Union Pacific, Atchafalaya and New York Central. Buying of the motors was rather selective in character. Hudson and General Motors being in weak demand on reports of large current sales. Pools, added by cash money, of specialties, but a good demand for eastern utilities, as standard issues as U. S. Steel common, American Smelting, General Electric, DuPont, and others.

Exchange opened firm with demand sterling quoted around 14 1/2 and 14 1/2 for gold.

The recuperative power which the general list had manifested since the close of the early trading in Lake Erie evidently impressed the outside element favorably. At all points, purchasing orders covered an exceedingly wide range of shares, including several which seldom emerged in prominence except during periods of great speculative excitement. With many of the recognized dividend payers, little effort was required to shove numerous specialties consistently higher.

General rate on call loans continued at 4 per cent.

HITT'S BILL FOR SIMPLER BALLOT WINS EKERN O. K.

Assemblyman Would Do Away With Party Circle in Wisconsin Election

Madison—(AP)—The legislative measure which has been introduced by Assemblyman Arthur A. Hitt, Alma, calling for abolition of the "party circle" and radical departures from the present balloting system, has the support of Herman L. Ekern, former attorney general.

In an article appearing in the current issue of La Follette's Magazine, Mr. Ekern declared that "there could be no more imperative duty before lawmakers than that of perfecting the ballot, protecting it against corruption, and making it expressive of the real will of the people."

The changes advocated by Assemblyman Hitt provide for the listing of all candidates on one ballot in the primary, instead of the present party tickets. The bill would also abolish the party circle, requiring the voter to check the name of each candidate for whom he wished to vote.

Mr. Ekern, explaining principles of the proposal, stated that the ballot could be made to insure a majority election in each case.

MORE INDEPENDENCE
"The primary and election ballots can be made to serve the purposes of parties and yet permit the greatest independence in voting," he said, "and they can be changed to greatly reduce the expense of elections, both to the candidates and the public."

"The needed changes are very simple. The ballot for the primary and the election can be made practically the same. For the primary, the ballot can be all on one sheet. Under the title of the office can be placed the name of the candidates of all parties with the party designation or principle following each name.

"If a candidate receives a majority of all the votes cast for all the parties he can be declared elected and this office will not appear on the election ballot. If no candidate receives a majority, the names of the two receiving the highest number of primary votes can be placed on the election ballot under the title of the office the same as on the primary ballot. By limiting to two the names on the election ballot the result will necessarily be a majority election.

"If one candidate received a majority of all the votes cast for all the candidates for the office he would thereby be elected. If no candidate received such majority the names of only the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes would go on the election ballot.

"As Massachusetts, Minnesota and other states where the original Australian ballot has been preserved, placing the names of all the candidates together under the title of the office, the voter has long been educated to make a cross for each individual candidate. This arrangement has also become familiar to voters through the primary ballot. The proposed form of ballot being also practically the same for the election and the primary will therefore be an aid to the voter and avoid confusion and mistakes.

KNIGHTED

Green Bay—(AP)—John F. Martin, prominent Green Bay, attorney was admitted into the Knighthood of St. Gregory at the St. Johns Catholic church here Sunday afternoon. The decoration was bestowed by Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, Green Bay, in behalf of Pope Pius XI. in recognition of "distinguished service to church and humanity."

Mr. Martin has been prominent in the Knights of Columbus organization for more than a quarter century. He was elected chairman of the first meeting of that body in Green Bay in 1901. Since that time Mr. Martin has held various offices in the organization, at present serving his fifteenth term on the supreme board of directors. Following the ceremony at the church, Sunday a banquet in honor of Martin was held which was attended by approximately 400 persons, including all present officers of the State Knights of Columbus. Richard Hennessey, Milwaukee, president and Judge Henry Graas, Gustav Keller, Appleton; Emmet Carrigan of Milwaukee assisted.

"Wisconsin, Michigan and other northern states have in recent years become for state purposes practically one party states. This has long been the case in many southern states where a nomination is equivalent to an election. To avoid the unsatisfactory situation resulting from a minority nomination these southern states have adopted various devices, especially a second or run-off primary between the two highest candidates.

More than a dozen years ago Wisconsin adopted much the same plan as that here proposed for its cities.

"In brief, the plan proposed greatly simplifies the ballot, absolutely insures majority elections, will increase the vote at both primaries and elections, eliminates manipulation of nominations, reduces public expenses in printing and clerical work, reduces the expenses of candidates, and will secure real decisions by the majority on questions of principle."

SPECTOR, SEARCHED BY CHICAGO DICKS, WANTS TO KNOW WHY

Appleton Man Given Taste of "Strong Arm Justice" in Windy City

Memories of all the terrible stories he had read in newspapers concerning the activities and crimes of Chicago gunmen, bootleggers and gangsters probably crowded the mind of Morris Spector, Appleton jeweler, in a few seconds Sunday when the local man was "held up" in the Windy city by a detective. Mr. Spector was driving with relatives in Chicago when the car in which he was riding was forced to the curb by a large touring car which cut in front of the Spector machine, crowding it to the side of the street. Two six-foot huskies jumped out of the machine and one lumbered to each door of the Spector car, grabbing the occupants of the front seat by the coat collar.

Both men, including the local resident, were jerked from the car and turned with their backs to the occupants of the larger car and searched while they struggled in vain to free themselves. After searching the men and looking in the rear seat of the car the Chicagoans explained they were plain clothes men, but gave no further reason for the search. When Mr. Spector asked why he and his companion were searched the detectives looked around for a time and then asked, "Where's your 1927 license?" When the sleuths were told that their car also had a 1926 license and that an Illinois law allows until March 15 for new licenses, they left in their car without a further explanation, except a string of curses.

Mr. Spector still is considering whether the men were looking for concealed weapons or liquor. He intends to write to a Chicago newspaper about the "holdup." The name of the detective as taken by Mr. Spector was Ed Stranburg of district 27A and the number on the badge he flashed was 2037.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c. adv.

AUTOMOBILE SLIGHTLY DAMAGED IN CRASH

An automobile was slightly damaged in a collision with another car at 6 o'clock Sunday evening at the corner of W. College-ave and Richmond-st. No one was injured.

The drivers were Lawrence Mielke and Joseph Bayer, both of Appleton. Mielke was going west on W. College-ave and Bayer, who was driving east on W. College-ave, had attempted to turn north on Richmond-st.

POLICE START TASK OF COLLECTING TAXES

Collection of delinquent personal property and income taxes was started Monday by the Appleton police department. The collections are being made by Officers Joseph J. Rankin and Edward T. Ratzman.

A house to house canvass also will be made by the officers to determine owners of dogs in the city. Names of dog owners will be turned over to Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, and he will check up to see who has not paid his dog taxes this year. Only about half the dog taxes have been received, he reported last week.

FEDERAL TAX EXPERT OPENS OFFICE HERE

G. L. Catlin, deputy income tax collector, will be in his office at the city hall from 8:30 in the morning until noon and from 1:30 in the afternoon to 4:30, beginning Tuesday. He will maintain these office hours until March 15, the final date for filing income tax returns. Citizens desiring help may apply to Mr. Catlin for such aid.

Every unmarried person having a

Pleats and Tiers!

The Jacket Frock!

$19.50

NOTHING is smarter for spring than the jacket frock, in its varied interpretations. Some are simply two-piece frocks with the blouse in jacket form. Others show the little sleeveless bolero over a long-sleeved frock. But whatever form it takes, it is pretty sure to be combined with a skirt that is either tiered or pleated. The favored fabric is flat crepe and it is quite usual for two colors or two shades of the same color to appear in the same frock. There are touches of silk applique and metal embroidery or smart stitching which give the effect of more costly models. In navy, rose beige, Mother Goose, Queen blue, Havana tan, Phantom and rouge reds, palmetto green, black and white. $19.50.

The New Love Knot Sports Frock

Have you seen the new Love Knot sports frocks? A light wool fabric that is distinctly out of the ordinary comes in the loveliest spring shades—French rose, willow green, cocoa and Queen blue. So smart and yet so simply made, with a narrow leather belt, a vestee or a tailored touch in stitching. Other sports frocks in shadow checked wool crepe have the newest of necklines and buttons cleverly arranged to give the effect of a vest. Navy before have we been able to offer such qualities as these at $19.50.
